EXPLOSION AT HILLCREST MINE IN CROW'S

DERELICT PATROL IS ADVANCED ONE YEAR

International Sea Police Will Begin Work With Two Cutters in July.

ALL SHIPPING NATIONS WILL DIVIDE THE COST

Great Britain Assumes Double
Liability of Any Other Participating Country

PLAN TO CLEAR NORTH ATLANTIC OF DANGERS

Washington, June 19.—To free the North Atlantic of derelicts, the revenue cutters Seneca and Miami early in July will establish an international patrol in those waters as authorized by the international conference in London
last year.

At present the two cutters are working out of Halifax to warn vessels against icebergs which may cross the paths frequented by steamers between the United States and Europe. As soon as the danger of icebergs has passed the two cutters will search for derelicts which impede shipping.

One of the cutters will make its headquarters somewhere in the Azores
and confine its duties to the European end of the trans-Atlantic routes. The other will make its headquarters either in Newfoundland or Nova Scotia and limit its efforts to the American end of the well-travelled course.

All leading countries endeavor to keep the waters for at least 200 miles
off their coasts free from obstruction,
but this will be the first time an effort
has been made by international cooperation to clear the high seas of derelicts.

Although the United States has been authorized to maintain the derelict patrol it will be paid for by all the powers which participated in the conference and signed the treaty growing out of that conference.

The treaty will not be effective until July 1, 1915, but by common consent
the patrol is to be established this year and the interested nations expected the United States to take charge of it. Great Britain will bear thirty
per cent. of the expense of the patrol,
France, Germany and the United States
each fifteen per cent., and the balance
will be apportioned among the powers
with fewer ships in the North Atlantic.

A majority of the derelicts in the North Atlantic are carried from the shores of the United States by the gulf stream and other currents toward Europe and deflected south by currents
off the European coast. It is impossible for wrecks of the European coast
to make their way to the United States.
Consequently a cutter with headquarters in Nova Scotia or Newfoundland will be able to destroy wrecks which the gulf stream is carrying toward Europe, and another cutter in the Azores can intercept southward-bound wrecks which escape the Nova Scotia outlook or originate off the European coasts.

The two cutters will use gunboats to demolish derelicts. They are equipped with wireless.

CANOEING TRAGEDY FEARED AT GOLDEN

Miss Thatcher and Mr. Russell Believed to Have Been Drowned
Last Night.

Golden, B. C., June 19.—News reached
Golden this morning that Miss Joyce Thatcher and Mr. Russell, cousin of Capt. E. N. Russell, of Golden, went out last night canoeing in the Columbia river from Mr. Thatcher's landing at Galena, B. C. The canoe and paddle were found at Spillimachee, a few miles north of Galena, on the Columbia river, this morning, and it is feared that both lives have been lost. Miss Thatcher is the second daughter of
Rev. E. G. Thatcher, M. A., Galena,
B. C.

Great sympathy is expressed
throughout the district for the relatives.

TEMPERANCE ACT LOST IN MUSKOKA BY 400

Braebridge, Ont., June 19.—With about two-thirds of the polling places
heard from, the majority against the Canada Temperance act, which was voted on in Muskoka to-day, is estimated at nearly 400. The defeat of the measure is admitted, as the remaining booths are not expected to materially affect the result.

MEDIATION IN BALANCE NAON PAYS WASHINGTON VISIT TO CALL ON WILSON

Ambassadors Striving for Peace No Longer Hopeful—American and Mexican Delegates Remain Opposed on Method of Mexican Elections

Washington, June 19.—Mediation stands to-day on the brink of failure. Only concessions by President Wilson or Huerta can save it.

Romeo S. Naon, minister from Argentina, and one of the mediators at the Niagara Falls conference, arrived here unexpectedly to-day. He did not go to the legation, but took quarters in a hotel near the White House. He came for a conference with Secretary Bryan and probably to see President Wilson. He planned to start back to Niagara Falls to-night carrying word whether the conference shall proceed or disband.

At the White House it was said if President Wilson knew of Mr. Naon's visit to Washington he had not imparted the information to officials there. It was believed, however, the mediator's visit had been one of the subjects discussed at an early conference between the president and Mr. Bryan. The Argentine legation professed not to know of the minister's arrival.

Talk of Armed Intervention Groundless.

President Wilson stands squarely on the statement given out at Niagara Falls by the American delegates and will accept no settlement of the Mexican problem which is not based on the principles outlined therein. This was made clear to-day by officials after the president had an early conference with Secretary Bryan.

If mediation fails, the president plans to issue a statement fully informing the public on the position of the administration and outlining his future course.

The president has no plans for going before congress with any phase of the Mexican question, and all talk of further armed intervention is groundless at the present time, according to officials.
The same, they say, may be said of reports that the United States
plans to recognize General Carranza, General Villa or any other faction in Mexico.

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 19.—The American and Huerta delegates held firmly to-day to the opposite views expressed by them in public statements explaining the type of man desired by each side for provisional president of Mexico. Both sides having gone on record, the prospect is that neither will give way and that there will be a complete break down of mediation.

Word was received to-day from Minister Naon, of Argentina, that he would not return until to-morrow from his trip to New Haven and Cambridge,
where he received honorary degrees.
The conference that was to have been held to-day was therefore postponed
until to-morrow.

It may be determined then whether any common ground remains for an agreement. The American delegates still have some names to submit, but the Huerta delegates have opposed energetically all persons suggested thus far, and there is little likelihood that any emanating from the Americans will be considered seriously. The mediators, as a last resort, will submit a list of five names. There is a faint hope that one of these will be acceptable, but even the mediators do not profess optimism.

Aside from the inability to select a man for provisional president, a controversy has developed between the American and Huerta delegates as to how the elections for permanent president, to be conducted by the provisional government, should be supervised. Likewise, the American delegates, in insisting on a constitutionalist for provisional president, have argued that the constitutionalist party

not only dominates the country from a military point of view, but is numerically in the majority.

Emilio Rabasa, the head of the Mexican delegation, emphatically declines to-day that the constitutionalists
control the greater population, saying millions of people had been passive and had not indicated in any way that they favored the revolution. He argued also the impracticability of a bipartisan election board, such as has been proposed by the American delegates.

The Mexican delegates were in conference early to-day discussing whether they should issue another statement in answer to the American delegates' utterance of last night.

"The American representatives utterly repudiate any suggestions that the American president has any intention of destroying the election
liberty of Mexico," was the reply made to the suggestion of Mr. Rabasa that putting the constitutionalists in control of the provisional government was tantamount to abetting and even exacting fraud at the elections.

RELATION OF HUERTA IS INJURED IN COLLISION

Marcial Quintana Sustains Fractured Skull When Run Down by Automobile.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 9.—Marcial
Huerta Quintana, a relative of Victoriano Huerta, provisional president of Mexico, and a wealthy rancher and cattle raiser of the Mexican state of Guanajuato, was near death to-day in a Los Angeles hospital as the result of injuries suffered here last night
when he was run down at a street intersection by an automobile.

His skull was fractured and it was feared that he also suffered internal injuries.

He came to Los Angeles recently to escort back to his Mexican home two daughters who have been attending school in Pasadena.

SIR JOHN HILL, MARINE LAW AUTHORITY, IS DEAD

London, June 19.—Sir John Ward
Grey Hill, a nephew of the late Sir
Rowland Hill, the postal reformer, was found dead to-day in his bed at home. He complained last night of indisposition.

Sir John, who was 75 years old, was an authority on maritime law and was president of the Law society in 1902-4.

MURDERS WIFE WHEN SHE BEGINS DIVORCE ACTION

Denver, Colo., June 19.—J. F. Freese,
an insurance agent who had been barred from his wife's home by a court order, broke into the room where she was sleeping early to-day, shot and killed her and then shot himself. He was taken to a hospital, where, it is said, he cannot recover.

Mrs. Freese had filed suit for divorce in which she charged her husband with cruelty.

TWO HUNDRED MINERS ENTOMBED IN BELGIUM

Liège, Belgium, June 19.—Two hundred coal miners were entombed in the Vielite-Marthaye colliery near here,
when fire broke out to-day. Two hundred of their comrades escaped when the alarm was given.

The fire was still raging this afternoon and every effort was being made to rescue the miners left in the pit.

SPEAKS ON LIQUOR TRAFFIC.

Clinton, Mo., June 19.—The big question that confronts the American public to-day is: "Which has the greater value—the revenue derived from the liquor traffic or the lives of the men and women it ruins?" declared Mrs. Lenora M. Lake, of St.
Louis, in addressing the national conference of workers of the Prohibition party to-day.

STEAMERS WAITING FOR CANAL TO OPEN

Washington, June 19.—Six established steamship lines already have served notice upon the Panama canal management of their intention to make regular use of the waterway. One vessel from the west coast ports of South America will be at the Pacific gates of the canal
July 2, seeking to make her way to Liverpool by that route, and thus to initiate a fortnightly service between Liverpool and the west side of South America. An American steamship line now operating four steamers on the Pacific side and six on the Atlantic is awaiting the opening of the canal to merge all ten into a regular line between San Francisco and New York.

ATLANTIC FLIGHT TO HALT AT AZORES AND OBTAIN THIRD PILOT

New York, June 19.—The aeroplane
now building for Rodman Wanamaker,
in which an attempt will be made to cross the Atlantic ocean, carries three pilots, according to announcement to-day. Lieut. John C. Porte, of the British navy, who has been selected by Mr. Wanamaker, will have Aviator Hallett in the flying boat with him
from Newfoundland to the Azores,
where the first stop will be made.
At the Azores it is planned to pick up John Lansing Callan.

The distance from St. John's, Nfld., to the islands is 1,199 miles, and Lieut.
Porte believes he can do it in twenty hours. The consumption of gasoline to the Azores will lighten the load to such an extent that Callan's weight
will make no difference.

HAIGHT APOLOGIZES TO WRECK COMMISSION

Empress of Ireland Was Well Supplied With Life-Saving Apparatus.

Quebec, June 19.—The Empress of Ireland wreck inquiry opened to-day
with explanations and apologies from
C. S. Haight, counsel for the owners of the collier Storstad, which sank the Empress. He said that he had not meant to imply yesterday that the C. P. R. owners of the Empress, had tried to spirit witnesses away.

This was the impression made by Mr. Haight when he placed on the stand James Galway, a quartermaster of the Empress, who testified that the ship's steering gear was defective.

Percy Hillhouse, of the Fairfield shipbuilding yard, of Glasgow, where the Empress was constructed, testified the ship was carrying boats to accommodate 300 more persons than she had on board at the time she sank.
The bulkhead extended all through the ship, to the upper deck, he said, and
with even the two large compartments
in the middle of the ship filled she would have floated.

Water must have got in somewhere
else, he contended.

Captain Staunton, life-saving superintendent of C. P. R., said that the Empress' lifeboats, belts and other equipment had been tested at Quebec
May 23 and found to be in perfect condition.

Lord Mersey said that he had heard it suggested that the bodies were found with belts on but with the heads
under water. Captain Staunton replied that the belts would keep the heads above water if put on properly.

SUCCESSFUL PASSAGE MADE THROUGH CANAL

Panama, June 19.—Another successful passage through the Miraflores
and Pedro Miguel locks of the Panama canal was made to-day by the steamship Santa Clara, of the Pacific-Atlantic Steamship company, on her return trip to Balboa. The operation was carried out without incident, as on her inward trip yesterday and the vessel
proceeded on her voyage to New York
by way of the Magellan Straits.

The Santa Clara is the first privately owned ship to pass through the locks,
and she did so for the purpose of giving experience of the locks to the crew of the steamship, which is of American register.

WESTINGHOUSE WORKERS SIGN MONSTER PETITION

Pittsburg, Pa., June 19.—Thousands of Westinghouse strikers assembled at the Turtle Creek playgrounds to-day
and signed a monster petition setting forth that the directors are members of the union and they stand for the demands made on the company two weeks ago.

Picketing continued during the night,
but there was no semblance of disorder
until the Union Switch and Signal force went to work this morning. One arrest was made near the works.
Eridget Kenny, secretary of the union,
commanded the pickets last night.

NEST KILLS TWO HUNDRED MINERS

Greatest Calamity in History of Coal Mining in the District
Occured This Morning Underground in Workings of Colliery
on Alberta Side of Border—Relief Trains Being Rushed in
From All Available Points

PROPERTY OWNED BY CANADIAN PACIFIC

Rescue Resources Are Numerous; All Would Send Aid at Once

IS SECOND GREATEST DISASTER IN DISTRICT

Over Two Hundred Were Killed
in May, 1902, in Coal
Creek Fatality

E. F. Ambery, of Victoria, who was cashier of the Crow's Nest Coal company at Fernie for several years, knows
the district where the disaster occurred
well, and he was able to give much information this afternoon as to the place and the character of the mines.

Hillcrest, he stated, is on the Alberta
side of the boundary line of the province, but the territory is all in what is known as the Crow's Nest Pass coalfield. The property was formerly owned by C. P. Hill, of Montreal, and was sold by him to the Canadian Pacific railway a few years ago. It is thirty-eight miles from Fernie and about the same distance from Macleod, and is on the main line of the Crow's Nest section of the C. P. R. The nearest towns on the Alberta side are Macleod, Frank and Pincher Creek, and on the B. C.
side there are Michel, Hosmer and Fernie, all of them coal towns, so that there would be no lack of experienced aid on the spot within a short time after the explosion. A relief train would be able to reach Hillcrest within an hour from Fernie, where there is a recuse station belonging to the mines department of this province. The resources of this would of course be at the disposal of the Alberta authorities
and the mines inspector of the province
could be depended upon to give their assistance. There are also recuse stations at Cranbrook and at Lethbridge,
but the latter is so far to the east of the scene of the disaster that it would hardly be of value except for later
rescue parties.

Mr. Ambery describes the Alberta coal mines regulations as being so stringent as to make it certain that the explosion did not originate from dust in the workings, and it must therefore have been caused by gas. It is likely that some accumulation of gas suddenly became ignited and the resulting explosion would set off the little gas which is always to be found in mine workings.

The disaster comes second in seriousness and loss of life to that which took place on the B. C. side at Coal Creek, Mr. Ambery says. On May 22, 1902, the terrible explosion at Coal Creek occured, in which 227 men were killed. In the explosion at Morrissey there were fourteen killed and at Michel thirteen.
The last bad mines disaster in Alberta
was at Bellevue, which adjoins Hillcrest, in which a very large number of men were killed by an explosion of gas.

The rescue station at Fernie is in charge of George O'Brien, an experienced and qualified fire boss.

The former owners of the Hillcrest
mine were the Hillcrest Coal & Coke Company, Limited, which was incorporated in 1905 by a number of eastern
people, with a capital of half a million dollars. At the time of its being disposed of to the C. P. R. its president was M. P. Davis, a well-known Ottawa contractor; its vice-president George W. Fowler, a New Brunswick member of the House of Commons; and its secretary and managing director C. P.
Hill, who was largely the moving spirit
in it. Among its directors were William Farwell, president of the Eastern Townships bank, Sherbrook, Que.; the late Hon. Peter White, Pembroke, a former speaker of the commons; and George Taylor, M. P., now senator; A.
A. Lefurgey, who has represented a Prince Edward Island seat in the commons.

The property comprises 960 acres at Hillcrest, which is two miles east of

Six Hundred Went Down Mine This Morning to Work; Three Hundred Now Reported Safe; Many Bodies Have Been Recovered by Those Engaged in Work of Rescue
Mine on Fire Has Been Burning Several Hours

Calgary, Alta., June 19.—Over two hundred men were killed
this morning when an explosion occurred in the Hillcrest coal mine a few miles from Frank, Alta., at 9.30. Various accounts of the fatality have been sent in during the morning, but at the latest reckoning made from the number who went down the mine before the explosion and from those who reached the surface alive it is estimated that the dead will number two hundred and twenty-five.

Sixty-five have been brought to the surface, but some of these are dead.

The estimate of those who went down this morning is given as about six hundred. About half of these reached the surface. The figures now given account for nearly three hundred being in the mine
when the explosion occurred.

The figures are the estimate of officials of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, owners of the mine.

There is said to be practically no hope for the men below as they are in the mine workings, and the mine has been on fire since shortly after 11 o'clock this morning.

Relief trains were rushed out of Calgary and from other points in the Crow's Nest district.

Rescue Parties Able to Enter Mine.

As soon as possible after the disaster occurred preparations for rescuing their comrades imprisoned below were made by the miners who were fortunate enough to escape the calamity. Men went down the shaft and penetrated the inner workings. No details of the condition of the interior of the mine are yet to hand. All efforts possible have been towards bringing up the bodies.

Some of those imprisoned by the explosion escaped alive. The estimates of these vary from thirty-five to fifty.

Relief trains sent from the several towns within reach were loaded with medical supplies. All available physicians in Calgary were at the station to go out from here on the special. Nurses were hurriedly summoned to go with the relief party, and from other towns in the more immediate district the same preparations were hurriedly made. The relief train from here will reach the scene this afternoon, having been routed through by the Canadian Pacific railway.

Reports coming in from the surrounding country are to the effect that the explosion was heard for many miles.

The scenes around the mine tell a terrible tale of the havoc wrought, and the fearful force of the explosion. It is only with the greatest difficulty that the gangs of rescuers, armed as they are with the latest scientific devices for saving life in such cases can make any headway.

Men, horses, timber and rails and wagons are jumbled in chaotic
mass and the path is strewn at every step with the debris so that only those men who were fortunate enough to have been working near the pit mouth have any chance of being brought out alive. In fact, old-time miners declare their belief that after such a holocaust, no man now unrecovered from the innermost workings of the pit can possibly emerge alive.

LETHBRIDGE HAS BAD REPORT OF EXPLOSION

Lethbridge, Alberta, June 19.—
Fresh reports confirm the seriousness of the explosion of the coal mine at Hillcrest. Sixteen have been brought out dead. Four hundred are said to be entombed. It is possible that half of them may be reached, but there is not much hope of getting to the remainder in time.

Rescue work at the Hillcrest
mine is much retarded through the mine being on fire. Twenty-two were brought out alive.

FRONTIERSMEN CALLED FOR EMERGENCY WORK

Vancouver, June 19.—Members of the Legion of Frontiersmen, a semi-official military organization, may be called upon to act as an armed guard over the Hindus on board the Komagata
Maru in case the vessel sails for the Orient while the Japanese cruisers are here.

Captain G. H. Sloan, officer commanding the Frontiersmen, has issued an order to members of the corps to hold themselves in readiness for an emergency between noon on Saturday
and midnight on Sunday.

ing here by the Pacific Mail liner City

besieged city of Tepic are deplorable,
but the censorship is so strict that no
details are obtainable.

Forty American refugees left for San

long strain of the siege and the shortage of food are driving out even those foreigners who hitherto have been most obstinate in the defence of their business interests.

ASIATIC EXCLUSION SHOULD BE COMPLETE

Rev. Dr. Mackay Addresses Canadian Club on Subject Important to West

Winnipeg, June 19.—Before the Canadian club yesterday Rev. Dr. Mackay, of Vancouver, principal of Westminster P. (Methodist) college, discussed the Chinese question in British Columbia. Dr. Mackay said that the yellow races should be excluded from British Columbia at the present time, that if the government continued to admit Oriental immigrants the white laborer would be driven from British Columbia and white immigration would be stopped. Dr. Mackay discussed the effects already taking place from the impact of the yellow and white races throughout the world, and said that three results were shown. The first of these was that we were being made to realize the solidarity of the white race. The second that the Christian churches were being brought closer together and were coming to realize how small were their own differences when contrasted with Christianity and the religions of the Orientals. The last effect was that the white race was awakening to the fact that other sections of the human race had their destiny as well as themselves, and the competition of the yellow races must be taken very seriously. Dr. Mackay ended with a note of optimism, declaring that he believed, despite the greatness of the problem, statesmanship and foresight could and would save the world from a great clash of the two races.

LACK OF ATTENTION CAUSED MAN'S DEATH

Indignation Felt at Cowichan at Fatal Result of Accident to R. C. Nutt

Duncan, June 18.—Intense indignation is felt in Cowichan Lake vicinity over the death of Reginald Charles Nutt, an employee in a C. N. R. construction camp, as the result of serious injury to his leg. The death, it is believed, was avoidable, and the coroner's jury expressed the opinion that death could be accredited to lack of medical attention.

The accident occurred on Friday morning. Nutt was driving a dump car from a cut to a fill on a down grade when he noticed that one of the switches on the miniature railway track was out of order. He jumped from his car and tried to kick it in place, but before he could withdraw his foot the car rolled down upon his leg, smashing it almost into pulp from the knee down. The bone was broken in three places. The point where the accident occurred was six miles from the head of the lake, where the C. N. R. foreman, immediately sent word for assistance to the hospital. The male nurse there, E. Freeman, did not respond until after the third summons. In the interim between the nurse's arrival Smith fastened a temporary tourniquet of a bootlace around the injured man's leg to check the flow of blood. When Freeman arrived at the camp he did nothing to further relieve the injured man. The C. N. R. doctor was at the Alberni end of the grade and it was decided to bring Nutt down Cowichan lake to Riverside. The nurse approved of this and Nutt, according to the evidence of Julian Dale, engineer of the Gretna, was placed on that boat still bleeding from his wound with the shoelace tourniquet slack. The male nurse did not accompany the injured man. He was alone save for the engineer on the twenty-three mile launch trip to Riverside. Nutt was carried from the boat to the Riverside Inn in an unconscious state and died there half an hour before the arrival of a doctor, who had been summoned. The coroner, Dr. H. F. D. Stephens, R.N., and the jury at the inquest severely censured Freeman for not accompanying the injured man on the lake trip. Freeman had two men in his care at the hospital, but it was held that he could have left them. It developed during the inquest that there were no medical appliances in camp 97, where Nutt was located, and the foreman testified that although he had been there two months he had seen the doctor only once and that the men paid $1 per month for medical attention.

The jury returned a verdict of accidental death, to which was added this rider: "The jurors recommend that the camp be supplied with surgical appliances, drugs, etc., in cases of emergency and that, during the absence of the camp physician, a qualified nurse should be left in charge. The jury is of the opinion that the deceased's death can be accredited to the lack of medical attention." Nutt was formerly a captain in the British army and served through the Boer war. He was the son of Rev. Mr. Nutt, vicar of Cambridge, and late of Henley-on-Thames. He was buried in Duncan.

Fighting for People Says Victor of Torreón, Not Each Other

Quebec, June 19.—Continuing his evidence before the enquiry into the St. Lawrence disaster when the Empress of Ireland sank and over 1,000 lives were lost, Quartermaster James F. Galway yesterday afternoon said that he had trouble with the steering gear of the Empress coming up the lower traverse a narrow passage below Quebec. He found that it was impossible to manage the ship, as she behaved in an extraordinary manner. When he gave her the helm she did not answer it in time. In the traverse she sheered off some three points.

The witness then got confused by the questions asked him, and for some moments gave answers which were obviously ridiculous. When he recovered his composure to some extent, he said in the traverse the Empress swung to starboard and then to port. There was another vessel, the schooner, by at the time, and the Empress sheered toward it. To put the vessel right he put the wheel to starboard. The schooner was on the port side. The pilot ordered him to port his helm and he put the wheel over 15 degrees. The vessel answered for a time, and then went over to starboard. They missed the schooner by about six degrees of the compass, or about forty feet.

Mr. Haight: "I may say that he said the length of my room last night, and that was twelve feet long."

Lord Mersey: "That was last night's version."

The witness said he again had trouble with the Empress between 10 and 12 on the night of the 18th. He was on watch from 8 to 12. He put the steering gear to port and it jammed for a few minutes. It began to work again as he pulled it. He reported the fact to Mr. Williams, the officer on watch, who is dead. He did not have to report the jamming to the pilot, as he knew about it. He did not report the matter to any other officer. When the wheel jammed he heard the telegraph ring slow. He felt a difference in the vibration of the ship and noticed she was slowing down. He told Mr. Williams that if the steering gear was not altered a collision was inevitable, though there was nothing in the river to collide with just then. Williams said it would come out all right soon. He had trouble with the steering gear of the Empress on the last trip, coming down the Liverpool river, when he found it difficult to manage. When he put the wheel to starboard she went twenty degrees and then she did not move. It happened on several occasions and more than once in the Mersey, and he reported it to Mr. Williams. He told Quartermaster John Murphy, who relieved him on the 28th, that the Empress was steering badly. The steering gear of the liner was altogether different from that on other vessels and compared unfavorably with other ships that he had steered. He heard the Empress give a single blast twice and then heard three other blasts. The last he saw of the Empress after the collision was when she was about a mile and a quarter on the port beam. Lord Mersey then invited Mr. Haight to ask the witness questions about what steps, if any, were taken by the C. P. R. to get the witness away so as to prevent him from giving evidence. The witness, replying to Mr. Haight's question on this point, said he saw Captain Walsh, Mr. Beatty and Mr. Holden, of the C. P. R. separately. He told Captain Walsh the steering gear of the Empress worked badly twice in the St. Lawrence. Captain Walsh told him that it was a common thing for steering gears to be like that. Mr. Beatty said he understood it, but still he ought to keep his own counsel. He did not tell Mr. Holden anything about the steering gear. Lord Mersey asked him why he did not, and the witness said he was not asked. He was given a ticket to go home in the Empress of Britain and would not do so because he felt that he was justified in remaining and telling of the steering gear, because it was the main asset in a ship in saving life. He then was offered a position as supernumerary quartermaster on the Montreal, but remained. Yesterday morning he got news from the office to go on the Calgarian which sailed in the afternoon. He refused to go because he had been served with a subpoena.

Lord Mersey: "Did Captain Walsh and Mr. Beatty tell you, after you told them there was something wrong with the steering gear, that you must stay for the enquiry?"
The witness: "They did."
Mr. Aspinall: "Do you think Captain Walsh wished to smuggle you out of the country?"
The witness: "I think the going home on the Calgarian would show that."
Lord Mersey said he would like to ask the witness some questions.

"You say that on this occasion you were in a narrow channel, the traverse, and that, in consequence of her not answering to her wheel, the Empress came within 50 feet of the stern of another vessel. Do you know whether it that channel there are strong currents?"
The witness: "Yes."
"Do the current affect the navigation of a vessel?"
"To a certain extent."
"Is the wheel always able at once to counteract the effect of the currents?"
"It is not."
"Were you in the channel where these currents are found?"
"I was."

Quartermaster Murphy, who relieved Galway, was then recalled. He said he had been on the Empress over four years and had found her to steer as well as any ship he was ever on. Like all other vessels when going with too much speed she would sheer, but a lot depended on the man at the wheel. Galway never made any complaint to him.

Captain Kendall was recalled by Lord

ROWELL GETS SUPPORT IN ONTARIO CAMPAIGN

Hanna's Assertion Contradicted and Platform Taken by Chancellor Bowles

Toronto, June 19.—A statement made by W. J. Hanna, provincial secretary in the Whitney government, in a speech made in western Ontario this week to the effect that if N. W. Rowell, K.C., the Liberal leader, was defeated in the coming election, he would abandon his "abolish-the-bar" policy, brought a reply from Mr. Rowell, when addressing a gathering in Peterboro last night. He declared that he would fight for the abolition of the Ontario bars until every one of them had disappeared.

The Canadian Suffrage association has issued a manifesto in which it is set forth that the organization having failed to get what it asked from the government, would now support Mr. Rowell in the hope that he would meet their demands concerning the franchise.

R. M. McElroy, former member, was nominated by the Conservatives at Carleton county in convention at Schomville.

The Liberals at West Hastings decided not to place a candidate in the field, but they will vote for Sinclair, who is running as an Independent Temperance candidate.

Chancellor R. P. Powles, of Victoria university, in this city, appeared on the platform with Mr. Rowell at Bowmanville yesterday afternoon, and after stating that it was his first time on a political platform or that he had not publicly expressed his attitude toward any candidate, he declared that he had been impelled to break his political silence by the assertion which had been made that the Liberal leader was in sincere in his advocacy of the abolition of the bar.

The Conservatives of North Hastings in convention at Marmora have nominated Robert Cook.

WILLIAM HARDER DIES SUDDENLY AT PORTLAND

Well Known Railway Man Was Friend of Lord Strathcona and Hill.

Portland, June 19.—William Harder, for 20 years general agent in Portland of the Great Northern railway, died suddenly at his home yesterday. He was one of the best known railroad men of the northwest, was a chum of the late Lord Strathcona from the early days of the Hudson's Bay company, and was a lifelong friend of James J. Hill.

Mr. Harder was about 70 years old. His family consists of the widow, two sons, Stuart J. Harder, 679 Talbot street, and William A. Harder, of Seattle; five daughters, Mrs. George C. Hazard, Mrs. Henry Gunther and Mrs. W. L. Wern, of Los Angeles; and Mrs. W. J. Sheppard and Mrs. C. S. Richardson, of Winnipeg, and nine grandchildren.

BANKERS' INTEREST IN NICARAGUA LOOKED FOR

Washington, June 18.—A sweeping investigation of the relations between the Nicaraguan government and American bankers interested in that republic, and the part the state department may have played in Nicaraguan affairs will probably be undertaken by the senate foreign relations committee in the near future. Before the committee consents to ratify the proposed treaty with Nicaragua it is practically certain that it will use every means in its possession to go to the bottom of matters.

GEO. TURNER, WEALTHY VANCOUVER MAN, DEAD

Vancouver, June 18.—George Turner, aged 64, died yesterday of apoplexy at Savona, where he had gone on a fishing trip. He came to Vancouver before the great fire of 1886 and left a very large estate in this city and California.

CURRENTS MIGHT HAVE CAUSED BAD STEERING

Lord Mersey Cross-Examines Galway on Statement Regarding Empress Wreck

El Paso, June 19.—Gen. Carranza last night advised Lazaro de La Garza, Villa's agent here, that the difficulty between himself and Villa had been adjusted by Carranza giving his permission for Villa to proceed south to Mexico City regardless of the appointment of Gen. Natera as head of the new central zone.

Carranza said that the forces of Gen. Gonzales in the east would work independently of Gen. Villa's troops. The Constitutional commander concluded by saying that the misunderstanding between himself and Villa and any further misunderstanding between any of the leaders would be left for adjustment when the three armies meet before the national capital. In the meantime Gen. Villa will continue his own military and civil officers in his territory.

Torreon, June 19.—General Villa yesterday issued the following statement regarding his relations with Gen. Carranza: "I have received to-day many telegrams from different newspapers in the United States asking what is the matter between Gen. Carranza and myself. I already have said through the Associated Press that there is nothing between Gen. Carranza and myself which has in any way altered our military policy. I now will go further and say that there never will be any differences between Gen. Carranza and myself in any shape or form that will interfere with the work of the Constitutionals."

"It would be the height of folly for any of the leaders to impede or in any way hamper the great work of our cause, now that we are almost within reach of our goal. It would be simply madness to wrangle about individual differences. We will fight the enemy of our people and his minions until we have completely vanquished them. After that has been accomplished you may rest assured that all Mexican patriots will do their duty and shoulder to shoulder will work for the good of all."

At the headquarters of the division of the north it was announced that there was no foundation for rumors that several officers in Juarez, placed there by Gen. Carranza, had been made prisoners. It was said that by agreement they had been transferred to Chihuahua City.

SMALL CIVIC BONDS FOR WESTMINSTER PEOPLE

New Westminster, June 19.—Alderman Kellington, chairman of the finance committee of the council, proposes to issue 4 1/2 per cent, 20-year bonds, valued at $2,000 each, in baby bond form. This will be done to test the feeling of the citizens toward a large issue of bonds in denominations of $10 and multiples. The first offer will be of general city bonds. The policy of issuing small bonds has been endorsed by the progressive association.

PROFESSOR SHORTT TO STUDY CIVIL SERVICE

Ottawa, June 19.—Professor Adam Shortt, civil service commissioner, left yesterday for England to study conditions regarding the outside civil service in Great Britain with a view to advising Hon. W. T. White in connection with the civil service bill, which was introduced on the last day of the session, but which was held over.

HURON REFUSES WOMEN VOICE IN VESTRY WORK

London, Ont., June 18.—As was the case last year, the Anglican synod of Huron in annual session here again to-day declined women a voice in the vestries of the church. A motion having for the enfranchisement of women so far as vestry deliberations were concerned, was introduced by John Ramsford, of Clinton, Ont.

WILL BE CANDIDATE

R. B. McMicking Will Offer Himself for Vacancy on City Council.

The candidature of R. B. McMicking, formerly executive agent of the B. C. Telephone company, for the impending vacancy in the city council, is announced.

Mr. McMicking is a pioneer of New Westminster and Victoria and is one of the fast diminishing band of 1862, the members of which assembled from Ontario points to try their fortune in the west, leaving Fort Garry 200 strong and traveling by way of Edmonton and the Yellowhead pass. Mr. McMicking was manager of the Victoria electric light works in the late eighties, after which till his retirement he was engaged in various capacities with the B. C. Telephone company. Mr. McMicking was a member of the school board in 1887 and again from 1896 to 1899. He is a prominent Freemason and at present is attending the session of the grand lodge in Prince Rupert. He has been a close student of civic affairs and almost every meeting of the city council last winter found him in his place to the right of the press table. The vacancy on the city council which is to be filled is due to the resignation of Aid. Cuthbert, following his appointment as industrial commissioner.

Sun-spots Form a Sight.—During the past few days there have been visible on the surface of the sun two groups of sun-spots which are described by F. Napier Denison, of the meteorological office, as affording an interesting sight through the telescope. These have been changing form daily since Sunday and have grown into two patches of almost circular form. The area covered by them is several million square miles, and they are in about latitude forty south on the solar surface. As the sun turns on its axis these spots will be carried out of sight in a few days. Mr. Denison explains that these are storms of cyclonic intensity on the surface of the sun.

Record of Northwest Mounted.—A talk on the history and record of the Royal Northwest Mounted police was given to the members of the British Campaigners' association last evening by Colonel John H. McIlreave, who for many years was assistant commissioner of that gallant force, with his headquarters at Regina. The members of the R. N. W. M. P. Veterans' association were the invited guests of the campaigners and there were a number of them there. Col. McIlreave outlined the condition of the country when the force was first formed, and gave instance after instance of the value of their work in the preservation of law and order in the west. Having grown up with the force, as it were, he was intimate with all it had done and with the officers and men who were connected with it during nearly forty years of its history. He gave a simple but graphic account of such thrilling episodes as the chase of Almighty Voice and several of the incidents of the rebellion. A very cordial vote of thanks was passed to Col. McIlreave for his address.

Strawberries in Saanich.—The second of three judgments of strawberry plots in Saanich which are entered in the competition for growers carried on by the department of agriculture has taken place this week. These plots have been already judged for care and cultivation in the earlier stages by R. M. Winslow, horticulturist of the department, and this week have been judged by H. Thornber, assistant horticulturist, on the progress shown and the attention being paid to them by the growers. Later on they will be again judged on the yield. A feature of this competition is the experiment which is being carried out with fertilizers, one of those being tried being a product of the whale fisheries on the west coast.

The ladies in charge of the table of sewing were Mesdames Hampton and Gregory Allen and Miss Clarke. Mrs. Baron and Mrs. List sold home cookery, and Mrs. Isherwood and Mrs. Druce, assisted by the boys of the University school, took charge of the ice cream and strawberry berries. A very profitable bran-pee was managed by Mrs. Sutton, and the following ladies dispensed delicious afternoon tea: Mesdames Ashton, Viggers, Schmidt and Dixon. The awnings and decorations, which added so much to the comfort and appearance of the proceedings, were kindly lent by J. W. Tolmie of Cloverdale. Modern Dental Parlors to Open Next Week

One of the Most Elaborate and Best Equipped in Canada

For nearly a month, carpenters, plumbers, compressed-air fitters, and electricians, have been working on the first office floor of the Palace building, corner Government and Yates streets, and have completely transformed those rooms into the most elegant quarters for dental work to be found in the Northwest. The interior finishings are to be the same as are found in the newest and most improved hospitals. The woodwork of each operating department is to be finished in a spiral white enamel, one that antiseptics and disinfectants will not penetrate and one that can be daily sterilized, presenting always a clean and bright appearance.

The equipment of this office is to be the best in Canada. Latest style adjustable dental chairs will be installed, to the left of which will be attached sanitary fountain cuspidors through which will flow a constant stream of hot or cold water. Newest model non-vibrating electrical dental engines will hang over each chair, and to the operator's right will be installed the dental switchboard by means of which the dentist has full control of any and all electrical currents, absolutely protecting the patient from shock. Compressed air plays an important part in modern dentistry, and without the use of the same, no operator can perform painless dentistry. Much time and expense has been invested in the compressed air plant for this office, and those in need of dentistry will do well to wait until next week, when we will announce our opening and invite you to call and inspect Victoria's most elaborate dental office.

Tenders Considered.—The tenders for the building of a stack in connection with the power-house and laundry at the Royal Jubilee hospital were considered by the special building committee last evening and the contract will be awarded at a meeting of the directors this evening. The appointment of a clerk of works will be considered and other matters connected with the new buildings are also to be taken up.

RASCALLY DOCTOR KILLED BY ELECTRIC SHOCK

"The Doctor's Testimony" at Romano Theatre To-day and To-morrow

Here we have a new twist given to the situation of a man being jealous of his own wife—a twist that is vital in its dramatic elements and human interest appeal. And Florence Lawrence, that glorious little star of Victor plays, is playing the leading role. It has been said that she can be counted on to carry almost any kind of a play over, but the Universal have never made such requirements of her; this play is big in itself and what with Miss Lawrence in a part adapted especially to her talents, it is bound to fasten the attention and win admiration.

And then we must not forget Matt Moore. He is playing opposite Miss Lawrence, as her husband—the man who becomes jealous. There is little use of telling you who he is—you know him well as one of the most popular young leading men on the screen to-day. Jealousy, it has been said, is the one passion of the human soul that causes more suffering, heart-anguish, domestic tragedies and the most brutal crimes than any other. Do you believe this? Do you term it a passion or an emotion? At least, in the case of the husband in this play it amounts to a passion. He misinterprets the presence of his business partner visiting in his home. The partner was there because he loved the children. The husband thought his wife was the attraction. And in thinking this and making unjust accusations he brings upon himself sudden and unlooked-for complications that threaten his life and happiness. Buried forcibly in this story is a lesson that is worth taking to heart. The balance of the pictures are equally good, including "The Awakening," a stirring drama of the sea-coast, featuring Bob Leonard; "Sophie of the Films," the second of these Nestor comedies, built around life in a moving picture studio; "Closed Gates," is a drama of great heart interest, featuring Philip Smallboy, star player with the Rex Co.; "The Count's Infatuation" is a comedy of the rib-tickling variety, and is sure to please. Baby Violetta will be heard in new songs, and Mr. Julian Hayward, in new selections of the piano and organ.

SHIP ON FIRE AFTER BEING HARD AGROUND

Cannery Tender Paramita Went Through Trying Ordeal Before Ending Days

Seward, Alaska, June 18.—The steamer Dora, of the Alaska Steamship company, reached this port Wednesday, bringing the details of the loss of the cannery ship Paramita, of San Francisco, owned by the Bristol Bay Packing company, beached on the morning of May 13 in Lost Harbor while bound from the Golden Gate, city to Bristol bay.

The Paramita had gone ashore near Lost harbor, but was floated and was on her way to Bristol bay when lime in the vessel's hold ignited, setting the ship on fire.

In an effort to save the vessel and her cargo Capt. Wagner, her master, headed her for shore at Lost harbor, beaching her. A heavy gale was blowing at the time the fire was extinguished, and fearing that the Paramita would break up, Capt. Wagner and L. A. Peterson, owner of the cannery, left for Unalaska to get assistance from the revenue cutters making that port their headquarters.

While they were on their way to Unalaska the Paramita rode her anchors in the storm tearing out the hull planking and sinking.

The crew reached shore safely, but the vessel is a total loss. Part of her cargo, consisting of cannery machinery and a cold storage plant, may be saved.

Crew Is Rescued.
The United States revenue cutters Tahoma, Manning and Unalga stayed at the scene of the wreck for several days, finally taking the crew to Unalaska, where they boarded the Dora.

The little steamer while en route for Seward was caught in a storm and forced to lie to at Port Dick, where she picked up the steamship North-western by wireless and transferred 45 members of the crew of the Paramita to that vessel for Seattle.

GOVERNOR FOR 'FRISCO.

At 11 o'clock to-night the Pacific Coast Steamship Governor, Captain Thomas, sails for San Francisco. She is taking out quite a number of passengers from Victoria, including the following: Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Sutton, Mrs. Darch, Miss Darch, G. R. Anstey, W. H. Anstey, W. W. Herrington, L. Osborne, W. H. Burns, M. Matsukaver, C. H. Rice and E. W. Chubb.

BALE'S YACHT HERE OWNER LIKES CRAFT

It is Built of Teak Within and Without; Made Average of 11 Knots

"She is one of the best sea boats on the Pacific coast," is the way D. H. Bale, the local contractor, speaks of his beautiful new yacht, Ithia, which arrived in the harbor on her maiden visit early this morning. The trim craft anchored in the upper harbor and attracted considerable attention during the day. She is without doubt one of the nearest pleasure craft ever seen in the Victoria harbor. She combines excellent sea-going qualities with luxurious accommodation for a number of passengers and Mr. Bale is well satisfied with his Hongkong production.

Built of teak, both inside and outside, the Ithia is of 14 tons net and about 42 tons gross. She is 65 feet in length, and Mr. Bale had 60 men working on the yacht for six months at Hongkong. All the lumber used in the construction was cut by hand and all the brass work was made in the builders' yards. The Ithia has sleeping accommodation for twelve passengers and has a splendid saloon upholstered in morocco leather. There are two lavatories and a bathroom, all having the floors "she is piano finished," is the way in which Mr. Bale describes her interior finishings.

The Ithia has two masts and a dummy funnel and her hull is painted white. Speed is developed by a 70-horsepower heavy duty Buffalo engine and when thrown wide open it is believed that the Ithia will make a little better than 11 knots an hour. Mr. Bale has built his yacht for cruising and was not so particular about having her fast.

Eleven Knots From Townsend.
The new pleasure craft was built at Hongkong. She was brought across the Pacific on the deck of the Hill liner Minnesota and was put into the water on this side at Seattle. Two days ago the trim little ship started on her trip to Victoria, but when off Port Townsend one of the bearings became overheated and she had to run back for repairs. Early this morning she set out again and made an average speed from Townsend of 11 knots an hour.

STRATHCLYDE SHORT OF COAL.

The British steamship Strathclyde, which is bringing a cargo of sugar from Peru to Vancouver, was reported putting into San Francisco yesterday short of coal.

MEXICO RAMS THREE STEAMSHIPS AT KOBE

Osaka Liner on Outward Voyage Tears Adrift in Typhoon; Much Damage

Driven across the waters of Kobe harbor by a terrific typhoon, the Osaka Shosen Kaisha liner, Mexico Maru, commanded by Captain Kobayashi, collided with three steamships before she got up sufficient steam to check her wild course. The well-known vessel was on her voyage from Victoria to Hongkong and was riding at anchor in the Japanese port on June 3. Without the slightest warning a typhoon burst over the port and created great consternation amongst the shipping men. The cables holding the Mexico to her anchorage snapped like pieces of twine under the tremendous pressure and the vessel started her unguided trip through the harbor.

Word received from the Orient today says that the Mexico first bumped the Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Shihano Maru, which operated in Victoria about eight years ago. Minor damage was suffered by the Shihano. After fending off from the Nippon vessel the Mexico was driven across the fairway and soon fetched up against the side of the British India steamship Japan. Once again she cleared herself, but another Nippon vessel lay in her course. The Hakata Maru was bumped heavily and sustained some damage.

Steam Raised on Mexico.
While the steamship was at the mercy of the storm the firemen in the stokehold were working like Trojans working up the steam pressure. The vessel was brought up before she could inflict any further damage to shipping and was headed for Sumoto, 30 miles from Kobe, where she sought shelter until the abatement of the typhoon.

The total amount of damage done by the Mexico has not been announced as yet. Although the Mexico fetched up hard each time she struck she escaped serious damage and escaped heat on every occasion.
The typhoon was the first of the season to be experienced in Japan. Besides proving a serious delay to larger steamships, it caused the loss of many fishermen's lives. According to reports from Hiroshima 100 Japanese junks were wrecked and many men were drowned. At Yamaguchi 75 fishing boats were smashed and 13 fishermen were killed. Three sailing vessels were battered to pieces and the sailors did not escape. At Kure sixteen colliers and two sailing vessels were wrecked and one sailor killed. A message from Matsuzuru says that several fishing boats with fourteen fishermen from Nishi Oura Mura were lost and that twenty-nine followers of the sea from Nohara Mura were also lost.

TWO JAPANESE CRUISERS PASS UP TO VANCOUVER

At 10:35 o'clock this morning the two Japanese cruisers, Asama and Azuma, made their appearance around Race Rocks. They worked in towards Victoria a little, but did not alter their course enough to permit waterfront watchers to obtain a good glimpse of them. They proceeded to Vancouver and are expected to pass through the First Narrows on the high tide to-morrow. The cruisers will remain at the Terminal City until Monday morning and will arrive here that afternoon. They will be here for two days.

TO FLOAT CURACOA BY MIDDLE OF JULY

Will Attempt to Lift Sunken Steamer at Warm Chuck, Alaska, July 10

Operations on the raising of the steamer Curacoa have progressed so favorably that the salvors fully expect to have her afloat before the middle of next month. Capt. A. Bissett, who is in charge of the work, hopes to make his first attempt at lifting the Curacoa on July 10. As soon as the steamer is afloat she will have temporary repairs made and will be brought south to Victoria, Vancouver or Seattle to be fitted up for the passenger and freight trade on this coast.

The Curacoa, before foundering at Warm Chuck, Alaska, last year, operated between Victoria and San Francisco in the service of the Pacific Coast Steamship company. She was making regular runs to Alaska at the time of the accident, which was caused through her striking an uncharted rock. As soon as she bumped her captain ordered her to beach, but before she could reach there she sank. All the passengers and crew were saved. The wreck was sold to Captain Bissett, with whom is associated Capt. Harry T. Crosby and A. W. Bissett, his brother.

Cargo Being Salvaged.

The sunken steamer lies on a sloping sandy beach. A canal large enough to accommodate the vessel has been dug in the beach by the dredge of the salvage outfit, and when the Curacoa is ready she will be floated into the basin, which will act as a drydock. Most of the heavy cargo has been taken from the steamer's holds. Four hundred tons of coal have been taken out of her and this has all been disposed of. After the coal has been removed, between 600 and 1,000 steel drums will be sunk in the vessel's hold. It is thought these will give the vessel sufficient buoyancy so that when the three large scows built for the purpose are made fast to her at low tide the rising water will allow the vessel to be floated into the cradle already prepared.

It is thought three tides will be sufficient to place her in the canal. July 10 is selected as the date for the raising, as on that date the tides are unusually high. The average height of the tides at Warm Chuck is 18 feet. The owners of the vessel thus far have refused all proffers for the vessel, preferring to bring her south before selling her.

VANCOUVER FISHERMEN

Vancouver, June 19.—The steamer Celestial Empire arrived Tuesday afternoon with 130,000 pounds of halibut, and the schooner Carotta G. Cox has landed 85,000 pounds at Prince Rupert which will be shipped to Vancouver on the steamer Prince Albert. The new schooner Kleckerbocker, on her maiden trip from Vancouver, was hailed last Sunday and reported she then had 40,000 pounds of halibut aboard. The schooner Emma H. is due here this week.

SPORTING NEWS

STEELE SETS STRIKEOUT RECORD BEES NOW CLOSING ON FIFTH PLACE

Vancouver Unable to Hit Local Southpaw; Hall is Hit Freely; Seattle and Portland Also Win

Victoria is slowly but surely getting out of the cellar berth in the North-western league. Bobby Steele added another scalp to his belt yesterday at the ball park when he let the hard-hitting Beavers down with three bingles and breezed through an easy winning, the final count being 10 to 1. Steele set up a new league strikeout record for this year, fanning thirteen of the league leaders. He might have bettered that mark had not Umpire Wheeler called the game in the second half of the eighth, because of darkness. Yesterday's game brought the series to two all with McHenry and Narveson booked for to-day and to-morrow. Manager Delmas said he hoped to get better than an even break with the Terminal nine. Seattle beat Tacoma yesterday, bringing the Tigers to within eighteen points of the Victoria team. Portland took an extra inning battle with the Indians.

Hitting in the pinches behind Steele and handling their chances in big-league style, the Bees could have beaten the Philadelphia Athletics in yesterday's clash. They did not allow the Beavers to get started and it was only when Victoria had amassed ten runs that the locals let up a notch and Vancouver squeezed over a solitary run. The stellar twirling of Steele was too much for the mainland aggregation, every member of the invaders fanning at least once with the exception of Heister. Steele issued four bases on balls, but was very steady with runners on the sacks. Hall was hit freely and was unable to hold the locals in the pinches, Brinker twirling the seventh. Victoria had three runs in the first on Nye's walk, Calvo's single and Kelly's single, runners on second and third. Nye's second pass, Calvo's sacrifice, Wilhoit's double and McCarl's error, chalked up another brace in the third, while in the fourth Nye and Calvo singled in a row, Wilhoit chasing both runners over with a double. In the sixth Moran walked, and was sacrificed by Nye; Calvo took a fast one on the arm; Wilhoit shunted the pair along with a bunt towards third and Lamb brought them home with a single to left. In the seventh, Delmas walked and took second on a passed ball, scoring on McCarl's error. Brinker's double and Schanweber's single scored Vancouver's only run.

Umpire Wheeler again showed incapacity as a judge of balls on strikes. He called Powell safe at third when Lamb had the runner five feet off the bag. Pinky Gringle and Hunky Shaw created a lot of amusement by taking the coaching lines in the seventh, wearing flaring red wigs. A persistent Scot in the right-field bleachers headed into the diamond with the apparent intention of beating the Ump, but a blue coat escorted him to the gate. Later in the game, with Brinker warming up in front of the right-field bleachers, the crowd swarmed on the field and refused to budge until Umpire Wheeler had sent Brinker farther down the field to unloosen his salary wing.

Tomorrow's game is called for 2.30 p.m., Narveson and Hunt being the probable hurling selections. Victoria leaves for Spokane on Sunday night.

GERARD'S AMATEUR STATUS QUESTIONED

Billy Davies Lays Pro. Charges Against Local Boxer; Caledonian Programme July 1

A sensation was sprung in local sporting circles this morning when Billy Davies, managing director of the Vancouver Island A. A., stated that he would immediately lodge a protest with the B. C. A. U. as to the amateur standing of Albert Gerard, whom the V. A. A. has billed to meet Earl Baird at the Oak Bay athletic meet on July 1. Davies states that Gerard boxed as a professional in the Old Country and that he has also accepted money in Victoria.

Davies charges that Gerard asked the summer carnival committee for five dollars appearance money at the smoker which was held in the Drill hall for the visiting sailors last August. Al Davies and Joe Bayley were booked for an exhibition bout, but Gerard was secured in case Bayley should fall to turn up. For this Davies declares, he demanded and received five dollars from the carnival committee in charge of the smoker.

Gerard was billed to meet Al Davies at one of the V. I. A. A. exhibition bouts, but he asked for money, Davies states, and as a consequence Manager Davies was forced to put Scott Cropper on in his place. Manager Davies will ask the A. A. to take action at once in this matter.

Following is the boxing programme for the Caledonian games here on July 1:

Scott Cropper vs. Donald McKay.
Al Davies vs. Gunner White.

The members of the B. C. Horse will also compete in the mounted competitions.

NEW PLAYERS FOR LACROSSE TWELVE

Oak Bay Stars Join Victoria Club; Calgary Protests Mann Cup Series

With the addition of Macdonald and Pottinger to the defense and Clyde Macdonald to the home, Victoria's representatives in the Mann cup race will be materially strengthened when they take the field at Westminster on Dominion Day. The locals must win this game to have a chance for the famous silverware and the officers of the Victoria twelve are confident that with the changes contemplated they will be able to send over a team that will be superior to any other amateur aggregation in the Dominion. Efforts are being made to have Jerry Clute don a suit for the remaining matches, while Johnny Johnson will be seen at third home. The latter's speed and stick-handling should greatly help the club on the attack. A meeting of the Victoria executive will be held to-night at Oak Bay, after the regular practise.

Calgary, June 19.—Dr. Stanley, of High River, has been masked by Joe Lally, by wire, if the grounds there are available for a game between the V. A. C.'s and the Calgary Chinooks, and it looks as if something is to be done in the Kendall protest. The coast papers and the Amateur Association there put it up to the Alberta branch, and it looks as though the two games at the coast, played by the Chinooks, will have to be played over on mutual grounds. If so, the probabilities are that the winners will play Brampton here for the cup.

The Brampton team will take over a week to make the trip across the continent and will stop off at various points to work out. On the way out practice will be held at Winnipeg on Saturday, Banff on Monday and Kamloops on Wednesday, the team arriving in Vancouver on Thursday. The games for the Mann cup will be played on June 27 and a day during the week following. On the homeward trip exhibition games will be played at New Westminster, Kamloops, Calgary, Regina, Medicine Hat and Winnipeg.

It is reported that at a meeting of the New Westminster lacrosse club, held yesterday, it was decided to try and have Jimmy Gifford get out into uniform again to help defend the Minto cup.

VANITIE'S MASTER RESIGNS.

New York, June 19.—William Dennis of the cup yacht Vanitie, has tendered his resignation as sailing master of the sixth time won the British open golf championship.

Francis Ouimet, famed American golf champion, again fared badly to-day. He took 85 strokes for the third round of eighteen holes, bringing his total for the first three rounds to 260. With only one more round to play this left him in a hopeless position, twenty-four strokes behind the leading competitor, John Henry Taylor, five times winner of the open championship and its present holder, led the field at the end of the third round with an aggregate of 236. Harry Vardon followed closely with an aggregate of 228.

VARDON WINS TITLE OUIMET FAR BEHIND

Frestwick, Scotland, June 19.—Harry Vardon, of South Hertfordshire, Eng., to-day for the sixth time won the British open golf championship.

Francis Ouimet, famed American golf champion, again fared badly to-day. He took 85 strokes for the third round of eighteen holes, bringing his total for the first three rounds to 260. With only one more round to play this left him in a hopeless position, twenty-four strokes behind the leading competitor, John Henry Taylor, five times winner of the open championship and its present holder, led the field at the end of the third round with an aggregate of 236. Harry Vardon followed closely with an aggregate of 228.

CRICKET LEADERS

MEET ON SATURDAY

Cowichan Plays the Victoria Eleven; New Trophy for Eastern Clubs

One of the biggest cricket matches of the year will be played to-morrow afternoon at the Jubilee hospital grounds, when the Victoria and Cowichan elevens meet in their Island league fixture. Neither of these clubs has yet tasted defeat this season. The Cowichan men have six successive wins to their credit, while the Victoria players have won three matches and drawn one. They are the leading clubs in the Island series and to-morrow's clash will undoubtedly draw a big crowd. The Cowichan visitors are favored because of their splendid record to date and the fact that they won the championship of the province last summer.

Only three other league fixtures are booked to-morrow, the list being: A Nanaimo v. Garrison-Nanaimo, A Victoria v. Cowichan-Jub. Hos. B Civil Service v. Navy-Park, B Oak Bay v. Restorer-Oak Bay. Men's Own had little difficulty in winning the two-day match with the Civic Athletic association, which was played Wednesday and Thursday at Beacon Hill. The winners had a margin of 47 runs and one inning, the Civic A. A. batters being unable to hit the Men's Own bowlers to any extent. R. V. Lea, with 46, not out, was high bat. Moffatt, of the winners, knocked a finger out of joint in endeavoring to stop a fast ball at the wicket.

Montreal, June 19.—Dean Moyle, one of the chief supporters of cricket in Canada, has donated a cup open for competition by teams in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, Quebec and Ontario.

According to a decision reached at a recent meeting of the Vancouver Island Cricket league, T. Drake, of the Oak Bay club, is disqualified from playing in further league matches during the season of 1914. The different league secretaries have been notified of this suspension.

The Five C's Cricket club will hold a meeting in Christ Church cathedral school-room this evening at 8. All men interested in cricket are cordially invited to attend. The secretary, C. Thomas, P. O. Box 1206, would like to hear from any clubs having open dates to fill.

GOLF TEAM CHOSEN.

Canada will be represented by a strong team in to-morrow's international match at Seattle. Victoria will have four representatives, the B. C. team being Messrs. Macan, Wilson, Matterson, and Ricardo, of Victoria, and Messrs. Payne, Jamieson, McAllister and Hamilton, of Vancouver. The match will be the second of a series started here last spring.

ARTICLES SIGNED.

London, June 19.—Final articles were signed to-day by Willie Ritchie, of California, world's lightweight champion, and Freddie Welsh, the British lightweight champion, for their twenty-round bout for the championship of the world, to be fought at Olympia July 7.

ESQUIMALT SWAMPED.

Victoria Wests found Edwards' batters easy to solve and won from Esquimalt 17-4. Todd in the box for the Wests was in rare form, while his team mates played well behind him. Edwards pitched fairly good ball, but his support was ragged throughout.

DISCUSS FEDERALS.

New York, June 19.—Directors of the National League went into session here shortly before noon to-day, prior to a meeting of the national commission, at which the Federal league invasion and plans to check it were to be the chief subjects discussed.

BOXING AT BERLIN.

Paris, June 19.—A lively discussion on the question of boxing competitions at the Olympic games, to be held in Berlin in 1916, occupied much of to-day's session of the international Olympic congress.

After the Theatre comfort, good cooking and fine wines at The Kaiserhof Cafe.

HYPNOTIST ENTERTAINS

R. G. Barnum Gives a Successful Performance Before Audience at Royal Victoria Theatre.

It is two years since R. G. Barnum gave demonstrations of hypnotism in the old Victoria theatre, with accompanying police escorts and legal proceedings which left the city out some considerable sum. He has since been a resident of the city, as a business man, but last evening, in the Royal Victoria theatre, he once more came upon the stage in a professional capacity.

Whatever views anyone may hold as to the propriety of submitting to the power of a hypnotist, or the taste of a display of human beings in ridiculous situations as a public amusement, there can be no doubt that Mr. Barnum has great ability in the art and that no one who attends his performances can help laughing and commending at the antics his subjects play upon the stage.

Having been so long out of practice Mr. Barnum was plainly very nervous last evening at the outset, and he had to ask for indulgence if he did not have as much success with his subjects as he had on his last visit. He was at the further disadvantage that he had but one subject whom he had worked with before, though among those who volunteered another was discovered. In the result it proved that the hypnotist had no need to ask for any special consideration under the circumstances.

He got a class of sixteen subjects on the stage and of these he had no difficulty in inducing hypnotic sleep in twelve. With three he had not so easy a time but finally succeeded. With the last he was unable to obtain any power in the preliminary test, but when it came to a suggestion a few minutes later it was found that all sixteen had succumbed to his power. This is exceptional good fortune, so Mr. Barnum admitted.

The performance consisted of the usual tricks which the subjects were made to do while in a state of hypnosis, and while these rendered the subjects a source of mirth for the time none of them exposed them to any embarrassment or danger. Tonight the programme will include the circus, baseball and Dr. Bull's salute numbers, which will be remembered by those who saw former performances as being intensely funny. Tonight or to-morrow Mr. Barnum will try a cataleptic test.

There was a very fair audience last evening, and everyone was well satisfied with the entertainment offered. It was quite plain that Mr. Barnum has numerous friends in the city.

A marriage of interest to many Victoria people took place last Monday in Vancouver, when Gertrude Wilhelm, youngest daughter of Captain William Meyer and Mrs. Meyer, of this city, was united in the bonds of wedlock to Richard Fowler, commercial representative of the Calgary Milling company, in its western territory. The ceremony was quietly celebrated by Rev. Father Lechene, and immediately afterward Mr. and Mrs. Fowler left for a honeymoon trip through the interior and north-west. They will make their home in Vancouver.

Mrs. Simpson is to be congratulated on the singular success of her first private flannel dance held last evening at the Gorge pavilion, the big numbers who attended the event being ample proof of the popularity of dancing in summer provided it can be done under comfortable circumstances. The pavilion was delightfully cool, and iced drinks and light refreshments were served during the evening, while Miss Thain's orchestra provided an excellent programme of music. Owing to the popularity of the function Mrs. Simpson has decided to hold similar dances every alternate Thursday throughout the summer months, the next to be on Thursday, July 2. PARK NURSERY NOW A SPOT OF BEAUTY

City's Trial Grounds Present Attractive Appearance; How Boulevards Are Supplied

On account of its occupying a retired place among the trees, hundreds of the visitors to Beacon Hill park fall to visit the park nursery, which is now a blaze of color in the soft June sunshine. The greenhouse contains a large number of pot plants available for civic decorative purposes at any time—in fact, it was their decorative possibilities that induced the city council to build the greenhouse, as on occasions of public festivals plants formerly had to be hired.

The house contains an example of the green leaf catadum, with a leaf three feet long by two feet wide. This specimen was the gift of Luther Burbank to a local nursery, whose manager gave it to the city last year. ... The columbines are a particularly noticeable display at the present time. In the border is a mass of beautiful blooms in all shades of the rainbow, some of the plants at an experimental stage, but the majority ready at a moment's notice to replace those killed by devastating elements or those removed by thieves from the various city parks.

The principal trees raised in the nursery for the boulevards are plane, elm and ash, although chestnut and several other serviceable trees are also being cultivated. There is over $30,000 worth of stock in hand, which is a good record for four years' existence. Park Superintendent Purdy has over forty miles of boulevards in the city under maintenance at the present time, and as trees are constantly being broken or destroyed by the carelessness of children and sometimes by the thoughtlessness of adults, the call for repairs on the nursery is much larger than might be thought. The nursery is able to meet all demands on it for new trees, but there will not be a heavy call for construction this year as the streets which are being paved are business streets and few boulevards will be made in 1914.

The nursery is now open on Sunday afternoons from 1.30 on, so that people visiting Beacon Hill park for the band

Useful for Over 500 Purposes

GILLETT'S LYE EATS DIRT.

concerts may have an opportunity of seeing the plants inside the enclosure. Surprising as it may seem, the gardeners report considerable thefts from the grounds. There is no night watchman and as the nursery is planted on two sides by heavy bush, predatory persons plunder the plants under cover of the trees.

DISCUSS CONDITIONS OF WORK IN VICTORIA

Mayor and Labor Deputation Talk About Outlook for Future

For an hour and a half yesterday evening Mayor Stewart discussed the labor situation with a delegation from the Trades and Labor council. The men went to consult him in connection with present conditions and more particularly to learn what steps could be taken to meet possible conditions next winter.

His worship explained the works in progress on sewers and waterworks, and gave the members assurance that all possible work would be undertaken. With the financial situation unsettled, however, it was impossible, he said, to contemplate an extended programme. Christian Sivertz, a member of the deputation, then asked the mayor: "Will the city council be prepared to submit a by-law for civic works to be executed with the direct intention of providing relief works in the winter, should it be shown the measure is a necessity?"

The mayor replied that the difficulties were two-fold. First, the council would have a problem in selling debentures when, as he had explained, the members had pledged themselves to their fiscal agents not to float further securities this year. Secondly the council had done all work of importance under the last improvement plan for some years, so that any scheme undertaken must be of a general benefit to the community. He feared that the citizens would require considerable persuasion to pass a by-law such as that inquired about. The only measure which he believed the ratepayers were prepared to carry this year was of the Johnson street bridge. On the early commencement of that work depended not only the improvements on the reserve in the way of grading, but the commencement of the union depot and the Dominion agency, which building would abut on the west end of the bridge.

John Day, chairman of the delegation, asked the mayor if he would consult the aldermen about opening a registry of unemployment, one not like the labor bureau, for the purpose of filling civic posts, but one where all men out of employment could register, so that an accurate census of the unemployed in Victoria could be obtained. With such information it would be possible to deal more intelligently with the situation. The mayor promised to take the subject under consideration, as also a request from the same source as to the nature of the class of labor at present employed in the city. Thomas Mathison, representing the carpenters in the building trades, pointed out that the situation was serious. There could be no doubt, he declared, about the manner in which the artisans of the city were being pressed. They were being forced to do unskilled labor, he said, and the net result was that competition was being increased. Mr. Sivertz said that the Trades and Labor council really wanted some assurance that conditions during the coming winter would be better than those of last winter, as the struggle of last winter had forced many householders to reduce themselves to the extent that their credit was exhausted and they could not face another winter with equanimity. Advertisements of an alluring character, particularly those emphasizing the Federal works in progress here, and alleged evasions of the immigration order-council prohibiting artisans entering the province, were blamed during the discussion. In the latter case Mr. Day declared that persons came in ostensibly as business men, while sending their craftsmen's tools by another route to hoodwink the immigration officials. He stated that the Trades council was carrying on an investigation into several cases of this character at the present time.

CLEARED $135. Sale of Work of St. Paul's, Esquimalt, Results in Good Proceeds; Concert in Evening.

The annual garden party and sale of work held yesterday afternoon in the rectory grounds of St. Paul's church, Esquimalt, was opened at 3 by the Rev. E. G. Miller, rector of St. Barnabas' church, who, in a congratulatory speech, referred to the historic associations of St. Paul's, and wished the Guild and Women's Auxiliary success in their undertaking. The stalls were very invitingly arranged. No fewer than three booths were devoted to plain and fancy sewing, while the usual novelties for the amusement of young and old were to be found in the spacious gardens. Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Holligon and Mrs. Gibson had charge of the Parochial Guild stall, and the Misses Tolmie were, as usual, successful in reaping large profits from their well-managed booth and bramble. Mrs. Ricketts, Mrs. Peterson and Miss Paul had the third table of sewing which was under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary and contained many attractive articles. During the afternoon delicious tea and strawberries and ices were dispensed, the last being in the hands of Mrs. Ellis and Mrs. Green. The counter of home-made sweets drew numbers of buyers, in charge of this being Mrs. Shaw, Mrs. Musgrave and Miss Lugin.

Her general appearance pleased the mistress greatly and she felt sure that at last she had succeeded in finding a prize. W.C.T.U. CONVENTION COMES TO ITS CLOSE

Great Mass of Business Disposed of During Three Days; Addresses Given Yesterday

The twenty-first annual convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of British Columbia concluded with the meeting held last evening at the Metropolitan Methodist church, the three-days' sessions having resulted in the disposition of a large programme of business, and a very happy reunion among the members.

Luncheon was provided yesterday by the associated Ladies' Aids of the Baptist and Congregational churches of Victoria, and business was resumed immediately after the mid-day meal, the principal feature of the afternoon session being the address given by the Baroness de Laveleye, of Belgium, who brought greetings from the little kingdom whose temperance supporters she has been representing in the course of her journey round the world during the past year. The speaker also brought a message from the late Lillian Stevens, whose name was included among those for whom the memorial service was held in the morning.

The greater part of the Baroness' address was devoted to a description of the work of temperance as she found it in the various countries which she had recently visited, while she also told some interesting things about the work in her own little country. There, she pointed out, there were 20,000 saloons, this representing one for every 78 inhabitants, or one for every 38 men in the nation. There, however, they had taken measures for the suppression of wine—was referred to. The grape-growers and wine manufacturers would suffer little loss in their business if they made instead of intoxicating wines some variety of unfermented wine which had not the evil effects of that which is now sold, she said. In conclusion the speaker urged the temperance workers to maintain an optimistic outlook, and to go out with the hope of winning.

Immediately after her address Mrs. Livingstone, provincial organizer, presented the Baroness with a memento in the form of a volume of British Columbia views, which were suitably acknowledged.

Another interesting feature of the afternoon session was when the honorary president, Mrs. J. L. McNaughton, was invited to the platform to receive a beautiful bouquet of flowers presented by the convention as a mark of its esteem, the recipient acknowledging the gift in a few simple words.

The plan of work committee recommended that a deputation should wait on the minister of education and ask that the section of the book on Health and Hygiene, devoted to temperance, should be thoroughly taught in the schools. The committee also recommended that the last Sunday in June should be set aside as Fathers' Day, and that the ministers of the churches in the province should be asked to preach special sermons on that day. The provincial organizer, it was suggested, should do everything possible to organize branches of the W. C. T. U. in all towns and settlements in the province.

A suggestion in connection with the last idea called for amplification by Dr. Scott as to the attitude being taken by the Methodist conference on the subject of total prohibition, the speaker explaining that while the objective of that body was prohibition, this might be most quickly attained perhaps through the educational influence of local option.

Superintendents of various departments were nominated as follows: Scientific temperance in schools, Mrs. A. L. Wells; literature and White Ribbon; Bulletin, Mrs. Barnard; work among sailors, lumbermen and miners, Mrs. Warwick; work amongst railroad employees, Mrs. Trevor; legislation, petitions and franchise, Mrs. Gordon Grant; young people's societies, Mrs. Brown; press work, Mrs. Macfarlane; evangelistic, hospital, jail and city mission, Mrs. Laskier; parlor meetings, Mrs. Pickard; soldiers and volunteers, Mrs. Dorrell; parliamentary usage, Mrs. McNaughton; curfew bell, Mrs. Halliday; flower mission, Mrs. Corey; world's missionary work, Mrs. Priestley; moral education, Mrs. Thompson; Sunday school work, Mrs. Gillespie; foreign work, Mrs. G. H. Smith; Sabbath observance, Mrs. R. S. Forbes; school of methods, Ms. Livingstone; peace and arbitration, Mrs. Macken.

The members of the board of the W. C. T. U. home were appointed as follows: Mesdames D. Spencer, Burkholder, P. Andrews, W. H. Parsons, Wilson, Watt, William Grant, A. E. Mitchell, Shakespeare, Tufts, Fortune and Scowcroft.

The Metropolitan church choir and the church organist, Mr. Parsons, provided a very enjoyable prelude to the evening proceedings by giving a short programme of music.

The first speaker of the evening was Mrs. Frank Andrews, who gave a very interesting account of the "Twenty-five Years' Work of the Provincial W. C. T. U. Home," during which time over 300 girls had been cared for and the benefit of the home. The present building had been erected ten years ago, and had been considerably enlarged during the past few months by the addition of a new wing. The provincial government had given a maintenance grant of $2,000 annually, and the city a monthly grant of $60. Other expenses were covered by donations from friends of the institution.

who had been particularly generous in furnishing the various rooms in the new wing. Mrs. Flett, the matron, had been with the home for nearly twelve years, and everyone who was interested in the work would join in the expressions of appreciation for the great part she had done in building it up and in watching over the girls and women in her care.

Miss Elizabeth Gordon, social service worker for the Presbyterian church in this province, spoke at some length of her work among women and girls, and emphasized the great need for sympathy and help in the movement to wipe out the greatest of social evils. She, too, however, spoke optimistically, and made some practical suggestions for the repression and removal of the great wrong.

Rev. William Stevenson covered a wide field of social service work in his address on "Social Service Ideals and Some Immediate Needs." He described the ideals sought by social service workers, these ideals being the highest possessed by the race as expressed in Christian teaching. The great purpose of social service was to apply the ethics of Christ to human affairs, and to bring the kingdom of God on earth. Among the improved legislation to be sought for was a law providing for pensions for widowed mothers. Eighteen states in the United States already had made provision for such pensions, and the Social Service commission of Victoria had already appealed to the provincial government for consideration of the matter. Another matter which required fresh legislation in this province had to do with the age-limit for girls, he said.

The speaker referred to the great problems of industry, making particular mention of the unemployment question, which, he said, called for the assistance of some strong man before a solution could be reached. Men who had made a life-long study of the problem were of opinion that the only solution lay in a "back-to-the-land" movement. It was to Canada's shame that she had such great wide stretches of land on the one hand and on the other so many thousands of unemployed men who would go on the land if they could. But the government had been blind to the need for giving assistance to settlers, especially in such provinces as British Columbia, where a man had to have so much capital before he could become owner of even a few acres, he said. At the present rate British Columbia would become bankrupt, unless some scheme could be devised whereby the land could be put within the reach of the people, he added.

The speaker touched on the drink evil, and pointed out that the immediate solution lay in giving the people control of the licenses. There was little prospect of reform in the liquor traffic until women had the franchise, he said. In conclusion, Mr. Stevenson made an appeal to citizens of every party to give a helping hand in the uplift of the community.

The proceedings concluded with an anthem sung by the choir and the benediction.

OLD FIRM CONVERTED INTO JOINT STOCK

Peter McQuade & Sons, Ltd., New Name; Other Victoria Business Changes

Two of the new companies whose incorporation is announced in the B. C. Gazette this week are Victoria concerns.

The long-established business of Peter McQuade & Sons, ship chandlers, has been converted into a joint-stock, limited liability company, under the title of Peter McQuade & Sons, Limited. It will have an authorized share capital of $100,000, and the new corporation will take over the assets and liabilities of the old firm which has been engaged in the business for 40 years.

The Amalgamated Drydock & Engineering Company of B. C., Limited, is incorporated with an authorized capital of a quarter of a million dollars. It is registered as a private company, with but two subscribers to the articles of incorporation. These are William John Brinkman, engineer, who is manager of the Victoria Machinery Depot, and Charles John Savage, accountant, who is secretary of the same firm.

COST OF EDUCATION

School Board Report Shows How Expenditure is Made; Details Fully Set Forth.

For the third time in their history the Victoria city schools are the subject of a comprehensive report, which the school board has issued to-day. The report deals with the schools and the management by the board. Features of the two previous reports, brought up to date, are presented again, together with some newer ideas which experience has suggested. Particularly is the report attractive in the views of the new High school, recently opened.

The financial data is complete, taking the board to the end of its business year on December 31 last, but the details of curriculum and other matters cover a period right up to the time the issue went to press a short time ago. Two departures of the past twelve months are given especial attention, the night schools, and the training which is being started among the children in school gardening.

It can be seen at a glance exactly how much money has been expended in every direction by the board, the details having been separated at considerable trouble. It appears that deducting the permanent improvements, the expenditure per pupil in 1913 was $86.77 for the High school, as against $79.84 the previous year; $42.26 for the graded schools, as against $32.40 the previous year; $12.72 for the manual training departments, as against $9.56 the previous year; $14.25 for the household science departments, as against $12.60 the previous year, with the new cost of $2.51 for night schools in the year 1913 per pupil.

The board estimates the value of its school properties at about $1,480,000, the site value being given at $598,000 and buildings at $946,471, the difference being made up of furniture and apparatus installed.

VOTE FOR ACTION

Victorians Who Have Contracts With Canadian Home Investment Company Parties to Legal Proceedings.

The attitude of the contract-holders in the Canadian Home Investment company was confirmed at a well-attended meeting of those living in Victoria, which was held last evening in the King's Daughters' rooms, Courtney street, under the chairmanship of Charles McLean.

There was a general discussion on the subject of the actions of the directors of the company to which exception is taken by the contract-holders, not only here but throughout the country. It was felt that the legal steps which are contemplated constitute the proper course for the contract-holders to take under the circumstances.

A resolution was adopted confirming the resolution forwarded the other day from the Vancouver committee which has charge of the interests of the contract-holders in that city and district. The action of that committee in prosecuting the case against the C. H. I. C. and its directors was supported unanimously by the Victoria contract-holders, and they will give every assistance to their fellows in whatever is done.

The local men confirmed the decision of the Vancouver people to make an application to the courts in that city for a change of trustees of the funds of the company, and for the appointment of the Standard Trust company of Winnipeg as interim receiver on behalf of the contract-holders. This application was to be made in chambers in Vancouver to-day or Monday.

In all these proceedings the contract-holders in all parts of the Dominion are acting in concert, and by agreement the actions are to be instituted by one of those living in the mainland city.

Kipling's Foul Mouth.

BY ARTHUR SCAIFE, J. P.

London, May 30.—Mr. Rudyard Kipling, while he has added enormously to his notoriety by his recent political speech, can scarcely be said to have increased his reputation, or done much credit to his party. His diatribe against the government, which has been described, not without reason, as the most vulgar and insulting attack made upon it since its accession to power in 1905, proved even too much for the Daily Mail, no mealy-mouthed opponent of Liberalism, as you very well know. The organ of the new journalism is constrained to rebuke Mr. Kipling and to remind him that his political horizon is as narrow as that of the public schoolboy who only recognizes two sections of humanity, "our fellows" and "the ends." Most thinking people, whether on the Radical or Tory side, will feel inclined to agree with Mr. J. M. Robinson, M.P., who said when addressing a large audience at Tottenham, that the author of the Jungle Books had prostituted as great gifts as had ever adorned the literary world by descending to the level of low and malignant abuse of political opponents. It is not easy to follow the line of reasoning which leads Mr. Kipling to the conclusion that the present cabinet represents "a government of criminals," but the utterance of such a monstrous and at the same time such a fatuous denunciation stamps him as being incapable of differentiating between right and wrong, upon a political platform at all events, just as when he accused the Nationalists of having "befouled the honor of England's army." Either he did not understand the meaning of the words he used or he was ignorant of one of the most glorious chapters in British history. When Mr. Kipling, safe in the seclusion of his study, was writing poems on spurious Imperialism, Irish Nationalists were bedeviling the soil of South Africa with their life blood. As every schoolboy knows, it was the Irish regiments which saved the situation in Natal in the hour of our deepest humiliation. What regiments ever better upheld the honor of England's army than the Coleridge Rangers at Colenso, the Dublin Fusiliers at Talana Hill or the Inniskillings at Pieters, all three Nationalists almost to a man. Mr. Kipling, the papers tell us, ostentatiously gurgled his mouth with water before proceeding to allude to the political events of the last few months and explained to his audience with quite unnecessary vulgarity why he did so, quite unmindful of the adage that it is not what goes into a man's mouth but what comes out of it which defiles a man.

The Race Problem.
The question of the right of Indian British subjects to enter the Dominion which is now agitating British Columbia is also revived in South Africa by the publication of a bill to remedy the wrongs of Indians in Natal. The petrown correspondent of the Indian Times states that the poll tax of £3 ($15), which was imposed on Indians who refused to reintroduce, is to be abolished. De facto monogamous marriages in South Africa are to be rendered valid by registration before a priest or an official appointed for the purpose. The prohibition upon the introduction of a wife, married according to polygamous rites, which was imposed by decision of the courts last year, is to be removed. It is thought in South Africa that these provisions will go far to settle what in that country as in Canada has proved a vexed and thorny question not easily to be disposed of.

MAKES BIG SAVING IN FURNACE WASTE

Low Pressure Turbine Driven by Steam Made by Hot Slag From the Blast

estate duty payable to the exchequer would have been no less a sum than £1,117,117 ($5,585,585), an enormous fortune from an English point of view in itself. As it is, Mr. Lloyd George, for it is quite the recognized thing nowadays to substitute the man for the office, will get, indeed has already got, £87,838, or very nearly enough to run the entire country for a day and a half. (Have you realized that John Bull wants well over half a million sterling daily for his public services, alone?) Who but a man of the most vivid imagination, broadest sympathy and widest knowledge of men and things would have thought of leaving £5,000 for the purpose of founding a home for British lepers. Yet this is the sum bequeathed to Mr. John Burns for this object. I never knew that there was such a person as a British leper. Did you? Yet apparently from the magnitude of the amount the question there must be considerably more than one. We live and learn. It is pleasant to see that all old servants are remembered under the provisions of this momentous will. Rich men are not always mindful of the claims of their retainers.

A Significant Fact.
I spent four whole days last week in Dublin, arriving at eight o'clock on the Monday morning and leaving on Friday night at half-past nine. During that time I had occasion to see and converse with quite a number of people of both sexes and of various sorts and conditions. Not once by anybody was the subject of home rule or of civil war mentioned or even alluded to. The fact struck me as being extremely significant. How does it strike you? The papers are crum full of impending horror, but no one ever mentions it, its name is never heard, at least in Dublin.

TREATING ON A TRADE.
There is an old story of the days when the trade of the country store was mostly barter. The consummation of each deal was celebrated by a drink from some form of the store's liquid stock, the storekeeper standing treat. Into such a store walked a native whose reputation for meanness was monumental. He had a newly laid egg, which he wished to exchange for a darning needle. The exchange being effected, he lingered, evidently missing a part of the ceremony to which he was accustomed. Finally he said: "Ain't you goin' to treat?" "On that trade?" "A trade's a trade." "Oh, all right," said the grocer, willing to humor so artistic a grafter. "What'll it be?" "Sherry and egg," replied the farmer doggedly. Without a word the grocer drew a glass of sherry and into it broke the identical egg he had just received. The egg happened to have two yolks. "Hi! that's a double egg!" cried the farmer. "Ain't you goin' to give me another darning needle?"

One of the upper ten thousand who was visiting America accepted the hospitality of a gentleman in New York. When taking farewell of his host the latter asked him what he thought of the American people. "Well," answered the nobleman, "I like them immensely, but I miss something." "What is that?" asked the Yankee. "I miss the aristocracy," replied the Englishman. "What are they?" naively asked his host. "The aristocracy!" said the nobleman in a somewhat surprised tone of voice. "Why, they are people who do nothing, you know; whose fathers did nothing, you know; whose grandfathers did nothing, you know—in fact, the aristocracy—!" Here he was interrupted by the American, who chimed in with: "Oh! we've plenty of them over here; but we don't call them aristocracy; we call them tramps."

Much has been done in the last few decades to effect economies in the cost of making iron and steel by turning to the recovery of many useful substances formed in the course of the manufacture. For example, the metallurgical coke employed for firing blast furnaces is being made to an increasing extent in by-product coke ovens, which permit the recovery of many useful substances, such as sulphate of ammonia and benzol, which are lost in the old beehive ovens. Large amounts of fuel are now saved by utilizing the gases generated in the blast furnaces themselves for heating the blast or for producing power through the agency of gas engines or gas fired steam boilers. Enormous Waste of Heat.

But there still remain many sources of waste which afford a wide scope for the ingenuity of the metallurgist, and one of them is the heat which is dissipated with the slags that accompany the manufacture of pig iron. The annual production of these slags has been estimated to amount to over 200,000,000 tons, and if their temperature is taken at 1,500 degrees Centigrade it will be realized that the quantity of heat they contain is enormous; but whether they are accumulated in heats near the works and allowed to cool naturally, or whether, as is the case to some extent, they are granulated by being cooled with sprays of water or jets of air for use in making cement and bricks, their heat is equally wasted.

Efforts were made a good many years ago by the late Sir Lowthian Bell to find a way of saving this heat, but the state of engineering achievement in his time did not permit a satisfactory solution of the problem, and in fact it is the development of the low pressure steam turbine that has now enabled greater success to be obtained at his works at Middlesbrough. Success for Experiments.

The experiments have been in progress at the Clarence works of Messrs. Bell Brothers for some years, the patents being in the hands of the Slag Power company, in which they hold half the shares. The first idea was to drop the molten slag as it comes from the blast furnaces into water, and use the steam thus produced in a low pressure turbine. But various troubles attended this simple plan. Along with the steam considerable quantities of hydrogen and sulphuretted hydrogen were produced, and these gave rise to difficulties in connection with obtaining the high vacuum necessary to the efficient working of the turbine. These difficulties were overcome, but a further one remained in the fact that a quantity of fine sulphur was also produced, and this was found impossible to eliminate from the steam. Yet if it had not been removed it would have damaged the blades of the turbine with which it came into contact, and would also have blocked the steam passages. Another difficulty was caused by the fact that the hot blast furnace slag when thrown into water froths up into a foamy substance, which floats, and means had to be devised for submerging it and for removing it from the water.

Instead of attempting to use directly in the turbine the dirty steam generated by the contact of the slag with the water, the plan finally adopted was to employ it indirectly for generating clean steam by means of a heat exchanger, the particular form adopted being a Kestner single effect climbing film evaporator. The hot slag is run direct from the blast furnace into the primary generator, in which an upright shaft with four blades revolves, keeping the water in constant rotation. When the slag drops through the orifice the velocity of its fall carries it well below the lip, and before it rises to the surface it is swept by the moving water past the orifice and inside the seal.

An elevator then lifts it from the generator and drops it through a second seal; by this time it is waterlogged and sinks, and it is then collected by a second elevator, which drops it into railway trucks for removal. The dirty steam passes from the generator to the evaporator, where it is used to produce clean steam, which is employed in the turbine. In the case of copper slag the second elevator is not required, since the slag does not float in water, but immediately sinks.

Big Saving Achieved.
As the result of many experiments the average efficiency of the evaporator is found to be 91 per cent., and of clean steam available for the turbine 80 per cent. It is estimated that with a 1,000 kilowatt plant with 75 per cent. load the cost of generating one kilowatt would be 0.32d (0.64 cent.), whereas with a high pressure steam plant using coal at 1s. 6d. a ton it would be 0.88d (0.88 cent.), the economy realized by the aid of the heat from the slag being thus

0.16d (0.43 cent) per kilowatt, which under the conditions stated would amount to $21,000 a year.

It is stated that the upkeep of the generator and evaporator is small. As the slag goes directly into the water, only steam at 100 degrees C. comes in contact with the plant, which is thus not subjected to any great differences of temperature, while experience indicates that there is no action from the gases on the plates or tubes of the evaporator, provided they are kept clean.

NEW LAND POLICY.
Mr. Lloyd George sums up his political ideals in an interview which he gave to Mr. James Creelman, the well-known American journalist and author, who has lately been in the British Isles. The interview, which is published in the New York Evening Mail, represents the chancellor of the exchequer as saying that the Liberal party is preparing for the last great battle against privilege. When that battle was won, as he believed it would be, the real power of the old aristocratic order will pass away for ever. British soil in the main, he adds, is owned by a few thousand privileged persons. It is used by millions of industrious citizens—used for tillage, and dwelling houses, by manufacturers, and, indeed, for every form of public enterprise, need and necessity. The laws that regulate the ownership and occupancy of the soil were made in the past by those who owned it. Hence the right to own land without having labored on it or with it is established to perfection. The right of millions to live upon the land by virtue of their labor has not yet been acknowledged. "It is to this right we are seeking now to give statutory recognition," concluded the chancellor.

HUMAN PROCESSION

Over in England the burning question of the day is, "Is George Bernard Shaw serious?" On this side of the Atlantic Elbert Hubbard, the sage of East Aurora, presents a similar problem. Leaving to his countrymen the task of deciding whether G. B. S. is or is not in earnest, one may hazard the guess that Fra Elbertus is not only serious but that he spells the word with a S. But the Fra is also sentimental, and one of the most beautiful tributes ever paid to a wife came from his pen—and has enjoyed a large sale.

Elbert Hubbard, the G. B. S. of America, is a product of the West, for he was born in Bloomington, Ill., fifty-five years ago to-day, June 19, 1859, the son of Dr. Silas Hubbard. He had only a common school education, and followed several occupations with more or less success before the cosmic urge drove him to East Aurora, N. Y., to establish the unique business which has made him both wealthy and famous.

On the subject of matrimony Fra Elbertus, like G. B. S., has decided views. He describes polygamy as "an attempt to get more out of life than there is in it." With the socialists—although he is far from being a disciple of Marx—he holds that the economic independence of the fair sex is necessary to complete happiness in the state of matrimony.

"I believe in votes for women," said the Fra in one of his lectures. "The time is coming when all of them will earn their own living. The clause by which a woman promises to obey a man was put in the marriage service by the Turks and no one has yet taken it out."

The Hubbard philosophy of matrimony was expressed some years ago by the Fra's better half, Mrs. Hubbard wrote:

"Were it possible for men and women when they marry to realize that marriage is what they did before, and would make no more demands upon each other, marriage even with its present accepted meaning would not be a failure."

Of her own experiences Mrs. Hubbard wrote: "I am a woman of varied occupation. I supervise the work in a large shop, also in a large home. I write a little, I farm a little, and am busy from early morning until 9 o'clock at night with work which must 'make good.'"

"Marriage has more than fully come up to my expectations. I anticipated the closest friendship and companionship of the best friend whom I could imagine. I also knew Emerson's essay on 'Friendship,' and that in order to have a friend I must be one. In order to be worthy of living with a friend I must be able to live without that friend. I expected to give whatever I had, in thought, word and deed. 'If I had it to do over again would I marry?' Why, yes, absolutely! Provided I were the same person and my husband were the same man, or else marriage with me would be a failure. 'In order for marriage to be a success it must be new every morning, fresh every evening—the spontaneous joy of living together.'"

"I am economically free. I earn my own living. I have never been a beggar in my life. Before I could earn money I did not ask for it, and ever since I have been able to work I have always earned what I have used."

The drink trade made the slums, and children come to school half-starved because 30 per cent. of their parents' wages goes into the pockets of the brewer and distiller. People invariably get excited when anybody was killed by poison, yet the nation allowed the drink trade to kill by acute poisoning over 1,500 persons last year.—Sir Victor Horsley, M. D.

TO-DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

Western Canada's first institution of higher learning with university powers was founded thirty-seven years ago to-day, June 19, 1877, when the University of Manitoba was established in Winnipeg. It was the outgrowth of the Red River Academy, an Anglican institution of the pioneer era, and was organized as a federated institution which included St. John's college, the successor of the old academy; Manitoba college, a Presbyterian institution; Wesley college, which was under Methodist control, and the Roman college of St. Boniface. These colleges were the fruits of the early educational activities of such devoted missionaries as the Rev. Dr. John Black, Father Provencher, Father Tache and the Rev. John West, to mention only a few of those gallant souls who undertook the hazardous task of Christianizing and educating the savage red men and the reckless whites and half-breeds of the western Canada of Hudson's Bay company days. When the University of Manitoba was launched in 1877, Manitoba had only sixteen Protestant schools and seven Catholic schools to serve as "feeders" for the infant university. For many years the Winnipeg institution was the only university between Lake Superior and the Pacific coast, and it attracted students from all over the Northwest Territories, as well as from Manitoba. The founding of the University of Saskatchewan in Saskatoon, of the University of Alberta in Edmonton, and the University of Calgary and other institutions, has somewhat restricted the field of the country, while in the number of its students it ranks third among the universities of Canada. Many eminent clergymen and scholars have been connected with the University of Manitoba, and its graduates include numerous distinguished men.

FIRST THINGS

The first definite and decisive step toward the formation of Maine as a separate state was taken ninety-five years ago to-day, when the Massachusetts legislature granted the petition of about seventy towns asking for separation. Under this separation act an election was held to name delegates to a convention in Portland, and this body elected William King president and appointed a committee to frame a constitution. In 1820 the United States congress formally admitted Maine to the sisterhood of states. Portland was the first capital, but in 1832 the seat of government was removed to Augusta, where it has since remained. The northwestern part of Maine was originally a part of Acadia. After the revolution the boundary line between Maine and New Brunswick was not definitely decided, and Maine had been a state for over twenty-two years before the controversy was settled. The first permanent settlement in Maine was made at Monhegan in 1622, after several previous attempts by both French and English colonists had failed.

Agent—"Well, I'll hang round his house to-night and shoot holes through his windows, and when he comes down-town in the morning you be behind a fence in some vacant lot and put a few balls through the top of his hat. Maximilian's Execution to Be Celebrated To-day in Mexico.

For many years the 19th of June was a holiday in Mexico, commemorating the execution of Maximilian, the Austrian prince who had sought to found an empire in Mexico, and of his generals, Miramon and Mejia. Even now, forty-seven years after the tragedy of Queretaro is still fresh in the minds of Mexicans, and it will be celebrated to-day in many a rebel camp, where the fate of one "tyrant" will be recalled as prophetic of what will be meted out to present and future dictators.

It was 7 o'clock that June morning, forty-seven years ago to-day, when the Emperor Maximilian was led from his cell in the little prison at Queretaro. He was placed with his back to an adobe wall and facing a firing squad of Mexican soldiers. Bravely and without a tremor, he looked the marksmen squarely in the eyes. "Aim well, boys; aim at my heart," he called out. The officer in command raised his sword and uttered a word of command, the rifles spoke, and Maximilian's dream of empire was ended. Miramon and Mejia, traitors of the country though they were, faced death as bravely as their chief.

A groan of horror went around the world when the news spread that the Mexican "barbarians" had carried out the sentence of execution passed upon the Austrian archduke. All of the European powers had joined in representations to the Mexican government in the hope that the sentence of death would be changed to exile. Up to the last moment it was believed that Maximilian would be spared, but all such hopes failed to take into consideration the Mexican lust for vengeance. When Maximilian, supported by the bayonets of the French army under Bazaine, had lorded it at Chapultepec, he—or at least the officers under him—had shown no mercy. Nearly all of the Juarist generals captured by the imperialists had been promptly shot, without even the mockery of a trial. Mexican women and children had been outraged and butchered by the European army of invasion. Maximilian, in his days of power, had granted no mercy, and in his hour of weakness he could expect none. It is true, that Maximilian had not approved of Bazaine's cruelty, but the facts of "the butcher" had been performed in his name, and the Mexicans, having suffered so much, could not be expected to be in the mood for fine distinctions. Stern Mariano Escobedo, who had captured Maximilian at Queretaro, refused to pardon him, and there his forces were in command of Miguel Miramon, a former president who had allied himself with the imperialists, assisted by Tomas Mejia, the Indian "King of the Mountains," and General Lopez. When General Mariano Escobedo besieged Queretaro, Lopez turned traitor and betrayed the emperor. He has been alleged that Escobedo personally negotiated with Lopez, and that he made and broke a promise to treat Maximilian as a prisoner of war. In any event, the emperor, with Miramon and Mejia, were tried by court-martial, convicted and sentenced to death. The condemned men remained in prison from the day of their capture, May 15, 1867, until they were led out to be shot a little over a month later. Maximilian's body was turned over to his relatives, and his funeral was celebrated with great pomp and ceremony in the cathedral at Vienna.

COMING ECLIPSE.

Russia is looking forward to an international astronomical invasion for the purpose of observing the solar eclipse on August 21. The emperor, if in the west of Europe, including the British Isles, it will be visible only partially, but Russia will be favored by a total eclipse. It will begin in Norway, pass through Sweden and the Baltic, and then travel through Russia from northwest to southeast, retreating to Asia Minor and Persia. The duration of the total eclipse will vary from a few seconds to a few minutes, and it will be the longest at Minsk, where it will last two and a quarter minutes.

THEIR INDOMITABLE SPIRIT

To the Editor,—In your leader on "Militancy" in Wednesday's issue of your paper you state that the English government would permit men who chose to go on the hunger strike to starve, and that for men there is no "exemption under a Cat and Mouse Act" that men, in fact, would be allowed to die. This statement is entirely inaccurate, as anyone who has taken the trouble to follow the course of this movement knows quite well. To mention the women that least of them are not in a state of collapse owing to their protest against the treatment meted out by the government to the women of England.

Why not recognize the "Cat and Mouse Act" in its true guise as the last desperate attempt of the government to keep and quell the indomitable spirit of the women and not try to imitate as some humane attempt to save the women that least of them are not in a state of collapse owing to their protest against the treatment meted out by the government to the women of England. Therefore I would it not show more wisdom to

GAS IN OAK BAY.

To the Editor: I was much interested in reading in your paper last evening a plea from "Newcomer" that something should be done to secure a service of gas (for stove use) in the Oak Bay district of your charming city; and I can personally testify as to the disability which that district suffers from the absence of such service. I had intended building in Oak Bay and indeed had made arrangements to buy a lot, very nicely situated, but my wife would not hear of my locating in a district which lacked the advantage of a gas service, and I know of some others who have been similarly deterred from locating there. The citizens of the municipality should bestir themselves in this matter. I confess I was amazed on coming here and learning that your chief residential area lacked modern facilities for home comforts. You are hoping—and I am sure you are justified in the hope—to get great numbers of people to make their homes here. I think you will agree with me that it is important that they should not be disappointed by the lack of preparations you have made for essential modern facilities in the homes they will build.

THRASHED HIM TILL HE BEGGED FOR MERCY

Girl Tells in Court How She Dealt With Offending Chinaman

The story of how a young girl turned the tables on a Chinaman who attempted to assault her by beating him until he begged for mercy was told amid much laughter in the police court this morning.

The informant related how she was proceeding home from school when she was accosted by a Chinaman who attempted to assault her by beating him until he begged for mercy.

Cross-examined by R. C. Lowe, for the defence, Miss Bertucci denied kicking Sen Go.

"Where you facing him?" "No, he was facing me." (Laughter.) "Did you handle him roughly?" "Well, not very." (Laughter.) "Did Sen Go shout for help?" "He screamed as if he were being murdered."

"Why did you put your hand over his mouth?" "Because he was making too much noise." (Loud laughter.)

Mrs. Bertucci, the mother of the girl, corroborated the main facts set forth by the informant.

An altogether different story was told by the accused and a Chinese witness for the defence.

The first thing he knew he heard the girl say: "Now what are you two after, and saw her make for them."

The accused, Sen Go, corroborated his witness. The lady had asked him what he was doing and had immediately kicked him.

"HEAP OF NONSENSE" In These Words Chief Justice Hunter Describes Land Registry System.

"A heap of cloddish nonsense" was the term Chief Justice Hunter applied to certain features of the system in the local land registry office during the trial of the Mauvais-Tervo action in supreme court yesterday.

Much of the evidence dealt with the system in the land registry office, various clerks stating that maps of location filed by railways were not recorded against property as encumbrances.

Chief Justice Hunter declared that the system was defective, as by such proceeding they treated the sale to them as valid.

The particulars asked this morning by the bank were for information as to what particular representations the plaintiffs rely on as being misleading, and whether such were given orally or in writing.

BANK SHARES BASIS OF COURT ACTION

Glasgow Men Ask Setting Aside of Transaction Involving Bk. of Vancouver Stock

An application for particulars brought to light in supreme court chambers this morning an interesting action in which Claud A. Allan and Bryce Allan, shipowners of Glasgow, are suing R. P. McLennan and the Bank of Vancouver to have set aside an alleged sale by the defendants to the plaintiffs of 100 shares of the capital stock of the Bank of Vancouver.

The allegation on which the plaintiffs base their claim is that the shares which they bought on the understanding that they were unissued capital stock of the company were in reality shares owned by R. P. McLennan and other directors.

Afterwards the plaintiffs claim to have learned that these shares were not from the unissued capital but were shares held personally by Mr. McLennan and other directors, from whom Mr. McLennan obtained them to deliver to the plaintiffs.

In his statement of defence R. P. McLennan denies an allegation that in the action he was general manager of the bank. He states that Martin was not appointed by the bank, but that if he was an agent, which is denied, he was appointed by the defendant McLennan to sell shares held by him and other directors personally.

WOULD RUSH BORING IN FLATHEAD VALLEY

Injunction Obtained by Oil Company Preventing Contractor Removing Outfit

British Columbia oil activities in the Flathead Valley, East Kootenay, became the subject of an injunction proceeding launched in supreme court this morning by H. W. R. Moore in behalf of the British Columbia Oil & Coal Development company against George W. Snyder, a contractor who engaged to drill from one to three wells on the plaintiff's property at Sage creek, Flathead valley.

Great haste was made in launching the proceedings. The writ was issued at 10.20 and at 10.40 Mr. Moore had in his possession the order signed by the judge, all the necessary papers having been prepared in advance.

The history of the case begins with an agreement signed by Snyder to employ his rig in sinking wells for the plaintiff. One well was sunk 200 feet and an unfavorable formation was struck, so two trial shafts were made and in each of these commercial oil was discovered.

According to Mr. Moore's affidavit, Snyder refused, saying that he had acquired an interest in a company which had a neighboring property and was going to move his rig to that property.

The B. C. Oil & Coal Development company has already rushed an order to Los Angeles for further equipment, but in order to do any work this year the rig belonging to Snyder would have to be used.

The writ issued this morning asks for the injunction restraining the defendant from dealing with his rig except in accordance with the terms of his contract with the company, which calls for the drilling of three wells if required, and further asks for damages for alleged breach of contract in moving it.

DENIES THERE WAS THEFT

J. W. Cartwright Tells Magistrate Mrs. Firman Did Not Give Him Money to Deposit.

The hearing of the case in which J. W. Cartwright, proprietor of the Angel rooms, is accused of converting to his own use the sum of $19 given to him to deposit in the bank by Mrs. Firman, was concluded in the police court this morning.

Mrs. Firman, of the Columbia rooms, stated that about April 7 in the living room of the Angel hotel, she gave Cartwright $19 and her bankbook of the B. C. Permanent Loan in order that he might deposit the sum for her.

The next day she asked for the bankbook, she testified, and he said he had not deposited the money, but would do so shortly. A week later, she stated, he admitted having spent the money, but assured her he would make it good.

Ruth Firman, the informant's eleven-year-old daughter, gave similar evidence.

Cartwright strongly denied ever getting the nineteen dollars. On previous occasions he had deposited money for Mrs. Firman, but not about the date mentioned. After the month of March, he swore, he never deposited any moneys at all for her.

Three weeks ago, according to his statement, he received a note from Mrs. Firman asking him for $20 because she wanted to give a present to her nephew who was to be married.

Reviewing the evidence the city prosecutor pointed out that there could be no suggestion of ulterior motive in the laying of the information by Mrs. Firman. Either the two witnesses for the prosecution were committing cold perjury, or else there was something wrong in the story told by the accused, R. C. Lowe for the defence, contended there was no evidence to justify a conviction.

The remand was then ordered.

Will develop over five thousand acres, adjoining Famous Monarch Well in the Northern Alberta Oil Fields

The following facts are taken from the Company's Prospectus: The Company is capitalized for $500,000, $300,000 of which will be placed in the Treasury, 200,000 shares are now offered for sale at $1.00 par value, the entire proceeds of which will be used for developing the property less 15 per cent., which is all that is allowed for commission and expenses.

The above straight statement of fact on a Prospectus is very unusual and is an evidence of the Company's determination to give the investor in this Stock full value for his money.

TO OUR FRIENDS. All speculation in Oil is a gamble. We were convinced that some of you would buy Calgary Oils in any event. We therefore looked over the ground ourselves so that we would know what to do, and we selected what we considered the fairest and best proposition for the small investor we could find.

What is saved goes into the actual work. IF YOU WISH TO RESERVE ANY OF THIS STOCK YOU MUST DO SO AT ONCE, AS WE CANNOT GET ANY MORE AT ANY PRICE WHEN THIS BLOCK IS SOLD.

WHEAT CONTRACTS WERE ABSORBED CONTINUALLY

(By F. W. Stevenson & Co.) Chicago, June 19.—Persistent absorption of contracts by commission house interests taken in conjunction with covering of short lines in a moderate way by bears were influences which gave its firm tendency to-day.

The range was extremely narrow and there was nothing to induce a stand on the buying side of prices so far as the weather may was concerned.

Seaboard clearances have perchance proved more healthy of late. Liverpool for the first time for many sessions showed an advance.

OIL FOR WARSHIPS

Japanese Government Expected to Take Advantage of Strike at Akita.

Passengers on the Aki Maru, which berthed yesterday from the Orient, brought news of a remarkable oil strike in Akita, which has caused a violent fluctuation of the markets, and which promises to change the importation of foreign oils into Japan, as well as to revolutionize the fuel used by the Japanese navy.

In the Nippon Oil company's fields in Akita, the Aki's passengers reported, a rotary borer recently struck an inexhaustible vein and a spectacular gush took place. One day the yield, which was at first something like ten thousand koku (1 koku equals 40 gals.) increased to twelve thousand koku and necessitated a check on the spout. On the next day, according to a telegram received by the company's Tokyo branch, five other wells in the vicinity of the gushing well began to jet columns of oil spontaneously, while the No. 5 well yields oil at the rate of seven koku a minute.

The fields in question are in the vicinity of Akita and cover an area of six million tsubo (1 tsubo equals 2.9 sq. yards). The wonderful gush of oil in Akita prefecture is welcomed by the naval authorities. The demand for crude oil has become enormous of recent years among the navies of the world, and the price in consequence has risen to such an extent that it has become a difficult problem for the Japanese navy with insufficient funds to purchase and keep in store a large quantity of its liquid fuel. The crude oil from Akita will be supplied to the Japanese navy which, it is reported, is now considering building tanks of immense size at the principal ports.

Paddy fields have been submerged and a large lake of oil has made its appearance. Great commotion prevails in the neighboring villages. They fear that the lake of oil may catch fire by accident and cause a serious disaster.

The reign of commonsense is beginning to come into temperance in more ways than one. People will have drink if they want it, and the better way is to provide it in such a way that it will not lead to its excessive use.—Lord Halsbury.

If people are prevented from doing what is reasonable and comfortable they are likely to do things which are discreditable. The effort to drive away human nature with a fork is not likely to be successful.—Lord Halsbury.

This letter is from a lady who gained 14 pounds by using the great food cure. It did wonders for her in improving her general health. She is now proving her general health. She is now proving her general health. She is now proving her general health.

Mrs. Susan Dobson, Spring Hill Mines, N. B., writes: "It is with pleasure that I write to you in praise of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I was troubled with dyspepsia, and could not eat without suffering much pain; also had sick headaches frequently, and my nerves were in bad condition. About ten years ago I took a thorough treatment of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, using altogether 21 boxes, and since then can eat anything, have been freed from headaches, and my health has been greatly improved in every way. I gained 14 pounds in weight, and feel sure I owe everything to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. You may use this letter, and my neighbors can tell you of my condition before using this treatment."

ISLAND LADS FIRST AMONG NAVAL CADETS

Results of Examination Announced; Successful Candidates in Civil Service

Four Vancouver Island lads will enter the Royal Naval college of Canada at the opening of the next term, and two of these stand first and second in all Canada.

There are ten vacancies for cadets this year and of these five places come to this province as a result of the examinations held a month ago. The other five go to Nova Scotia lads.

At the head of the list of successful candidates stands George Barkley F. Barnes, of Crofton, and the second in order is Alured P. Musgrave, of Esquimalt.

The secretary of the civil service commission announces the result of the examinations in order of merit as follows:

1. Barnes, George Barkley F., Crofton, B. C.
2. Musgrave, Alured P., Esquimalt, B. C.
3. Creery, Wallace B., Vancouver, B. C.
4. Grant, Harold T., Halifax, N. S.
5. Donald, Colin D., Chemainus, B. C.
6. Gow, Francis R., Halifax, N. S.
7. Hope, Adrian M., Halifax, N. S.
8. Thompson, Edwin Alex., Halifax, N. S.
9. Powell, Arthur W., Windsor, N. S.
10. Frampton, Eric R., Esquimalt, B. C.

It will be recalled that at the first examination held Maitland Dougal, Duncan, now a cadet at the college in Halifax, headed the list.

The successful candidates writing on the qualifying examination for the outside division of the civil service of Canada at the British Columbia centres were:

- At Victoria—Charles Conyers, Edward Jas. Greig, John Ernest Kenny, Thomas Knight, George Sheret.
At Vancouver—Harry Dyson Donkersley, Leonard S. Donkersley, Angus Grant Fadden, James Greer, James Dow Herbert, Lillian Manson, Russell Miller, William Swain, William H. Vreeswyk, Mary Ward, Gerald W. Winslow.
At Nelson—Everett Gerry McNeilly.
At Prince Rupert—Ernest A. Price.
At Nanaimo—Ernest Banks Booth, John Thomas Storey.

A Vancouver candidate passed the general competitive examination for clerks in sub-division B of the third division.

In order to test the honor of the convicts confined in an American state penitentiary, the practice of leaving all the cell doors unlocked and the prison gates wide open has just been adopted. All of the inmates are free to go and come day and night as they please. All but two guards have been discharged, and they will be disposed of if the new system works well. The convicts are employed during the day on a state farm a mile from the prison. They work without being guarded, and no one has attempted to escape so far.

SALE VERY PROFITABLE

St. Saviour's Women's Auxiliary Clear $315 Through Yesterday's Undertaking at Semple's Hall.

The idea of having a men's stall at the St. Saviour's sale of work held yesterday afternoon and evening in Semple's hall under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary, was probably responsible for the more than usual interest taken by the men in the proceedings. Certainly they justified their claim to the undertaking both by the charming arrangement of their wares and by the profits accruing from their enterprise. Rev. Mr. Connell was convener of the committee which took charge of the stall, and was also responsible for the very interesting frieze which surmounted it, this showing men in all forms of industry, including a bachelor's washing-day, which was very amusingly portrayed. The contents of the stall were no less original, and everything from groceries to haberdashery was to be found therein, while sales were extraordinarily good throughout the day.

The various other departments of the sale were also successful, the scheme of decoration with ferns and garlands of roses being most effective. Miss Rye and Miss Hanington manipulated the Generous Goose with excellent results, and a table of plain sewing in charge of Miss Saunders, Mrs. Hardie and Mrs. Harper did a brisk trade. Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Tate and Mrs. Nicholson supplied articles of children's wearing apparel at reasonable prices, and fancy-work was dispensed of by Mrs. Banfield, Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Russell. The home-cookery stall was popular, and Mrs. Abbey, Mrs. Sidsworth and Mrs. Taylor were kept busy wrapping up the various delicious edibles provided by friends for their booth. The flower stall was in the capable hands of Mrs. Duncaul, Misses Violet Harper and Elsie Jenkins presided at the candy stall, which did a big business, and Mrs. Schwartz, assisted by the Misses Desmond Collins, Veda Butt, Ella Evans and Muriel Banfield, spent a busy afternoon at the Junior W. A. stall. The proceeds, which amounted to about $315, will be devoted mostly to the reduction of the debt on the rectory.

In the evening a very interesting musical programme was given under the direction of the church organist, J. D. Macey, whose tuneful part-song, "Eventide," was rendered by the choir during the entertainment. Others who assisted on the programme included Mr. Hudson, who sang the ever popular Molloy "Carnival"; Miss Gillis, who played up the various numbers, the Braga Serenade; Mrs. Hudson, who gave a pleasing rendering of "A May Morning," and, in duet with her husband, sang the amusing "Spider and Fly." Miss McIntyre, the gold-medallist Scotch dancer, gave a graceful demonstration of dancing, Highland Flings, Salloons' Hornpipe and an Irish Jig, winning her great applause toward the close of the programme, the only other number on which was provided by R. Morrison, who gave a spirited rendering of "The Friar of Orders Grey." A big crowd was present for the supper served at 8 o'clock, and the undertaking was most successful from every point of view.
